TARIFF GROUP BIG PROBLEM FOR CONGRESS

Compromise Is Sought Between Views of Senators and President BILL MAY CLEAR PATH
New Yorker Offers Measure Which May Satisfy Opponents on Issue

Washington—(CPA)—An earnest effort is going to be made in congress to reorganize the present tariff commission. A compromise between the views of President Hoover as embodied in the tariff bill passed by the house and the provisions of an entirely different character written into the senate bill is being sought.

When the measure was last debated in the senate the issue was sharply drawn between the president and his opponents. Congress will not consent to a delegation of all tariff making powers to the executive while Mr. Hoover is just as determined that the old idea of a board to recommend changes to congress does not lead to constructive action.

Representative Davenport of New York, one of the ablest members in the house, has introduced a bill intended to set up machinery for tentative action by the president, at the same time permitting congress to disapprove tentative changes in duties if not in accord with congressional policy.

This is in the nature of a compromise because, if Davenport's measure is passed, it leaves the control of tariff rates in the hands of congress and yet provides a disinterested board to make detailed studies and recommendations which in turn can be checked by the president and by congress.

ALL WANT COMMISSION

There is no doubt that the tariff commission idea is in itself favored by all parties but the question really is where the ultimate power shall be lodged. Neither the executive nor congress seems willing to let the commission itself have the final say. Mr. Hoover's request for flexible provisions were intended to permit the chief executive to act when congress was not in session and also to develop the method whereby particular schedules could be taken up without reopening the whole tariff law.

The big item in the controversy is political influence. Where will it be exerted? At present the pressure is applied against members of congress generally. If the chief executive had the power to modify the tariff he

MILITARY REGIME AT COLORADO PENITENTIARY

Canon City, Colo.—(CP)—A military regime will be instituted at the state penitentiary here immediately under the dictatorship of Patrick J. Hamrock, former adjutant general of the Colorado National guard, Charles J. Moynihan, chairman of the state board of corrections, announced today. This step was being taken in an effort to quell intermittent disorders at the institution, Moynihan said.

The board of corrections voted unanimously to install Hamrock as special deputy warden under Warden Francis E. Crawford.

Moynihan said the existing administration of the prison would not be disturbed, but that Col. Hamrock would be given a free hand in restoring order and in attempting to prevent recurrences of riots and fires such as have occurred in the last few months.

A. W. PRIEST WAS PIONEER SETTLER HERE

Had Large Part in Industrial Growth of Fox River Valley

With the death of Albert Warner Priest, 82, Wednesday, Outagamie county loses a pioneer resident, (Appleton), one of its most influential and colorful figures and the paper industry of Wisconsin a leader whose life history parallels that of the progress of paper manufacturing. Mr. Priest recently submitted to an operation for hernia.

Mr. Priest, who had lived in the home on Prospect-ave for the past 39 years, was president of the Hayton Pump and Blower company, of the Eagle Manufacturing company, and of the Green Bay Wire Works, and a director of the Fox River Drive company. For years he served as president of the Outagamie Paper company and of the Hewitt Water Power company at Kaukauna and for several terms was president of the Outagamie Pioneer association. He was a life member of the Elks lodge.

Although never active in political life in Appleton, Mr. Priest came into public view a great deal through his business associations and through his contributions to the city. Soldiers monument in Soldier Square was donated by Mr. Priest in memory of his brother, James E. Priest, who died during the Civil War. Memorial bridge in Riverside cemetery was a gift from him, as was the furniture in the Elks club and recently he presented $25,000 to the Baptist church. He made several donations to Lawrence college, including $5,000 toward the construction.

GENERAL CROSBY HEADS CAPITAL'S CRIME WAR

Washington—(CP)—Major General Herbert Crosby, chief of cavalry of the United States army, has been given the job of making the nation's capital free of organized crime.

General Crosby was selected by President Hoover for the task of directing the police, fire and traffic departments of the District of Columbia. In making the appointment of the new commissioner of District of Columbia known, President Hoover said "it will be a guarantee to both the official and unofficial residents of the district and especially to the nation at large, that the capital shall be free of organized crime."

Mr. Hoover added that general Crosby had accepted the post only at his urgent request.

FORMER "BOY SHERIFF" IN COURT SATURDAY

Madison—(CP)—Lloyd T. Wright, Juneau's ousted "boy sheriff," will be arraigned in federal court here Saturday on a charge of conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition laws.

The former sheriff gained release from jail late yesterday when his father and Will Powers, Mauston, furnished $2,000 bond.

Wright, arrested last Saturday night during a raid on a luncheon room at Mauston, failed to appear for preliminary hearing money and a warrant was sworn for his arrest.

The conspiracy charge was leveled following an investigation which resulted in his ouster several months ago.

Probes Charge Radio Firm Wouldn't Help Fight Crime

Washington—(CP)—James G. Harbord, chairman of the board of the Radio Corporation of America, asserted today he personally would investigate charges that his company "for a few paltry dollars" refused Chicago and other cities use of patents for radio equipment to fight crime.

Harbord said, in testimony before the senate interstate commerce committee, that if he found correct charges made by Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, in previous testimony, he would see to it that the R. C. A.'s position was altered.

Senator Wheeler said that from the statements of Kenneth Cox, Detroit engineer employed by that city's police force to set up a radio alarm system for use in apprehending criminals, it appeared that the R. C. A. "for a few paltry dollars, in effect refused to assist in fighting crime."

AMNESTY GRANTED RIVERA ENEMIES

Spanish King's Decree Wipes Out Charges Against Dictator's Foes

Madrid—(CP)—A royal decree was issued today declaring a general amnesty for all persons accused or convicted of rebellion or sedition against the Spanish government during the dictatorship of General Primo de Rivera, who was over last week.

The decree wiped out charges against Jose Antonio Sanchez Guerra, former Liberal premier, who has been facing retrial on account of sedition growing out of the abortive Ciudad Real rebellion of 1925 and against other civilians and army officers connected with revolutionary attempts at that city and Valencia and Segovia.

The action was taken on the anniversary of the death of Maria Cristina, mother of King Alfonso, who died last year after a long illness. Several hundred persons, many of them officers in the artillery corps, are affected.

Sanchez Guerra intends immediately to reenter politics, probably heading a new political group.

2 TRIED FOR PASSING COUNTERFEIT $20 BILLS

Madison—(CP)—Charles Williams and Nick Cuda, charged with passing counterfeit $20 bills in Wisconsin, went on trial in federal court here today.

Cuda was arrested in Chicago and Williams in Missouri last fall and the indictment charges they passed a number of worthless notes at Kilmoryn.

Witnesses from Georgia, Alabama and other states are among those called to testify for the government.

D. D. McIntire, attorney for Cuda, told the jury his client was not in Wisconsin during July, 1929, the month in which the spurious bills were believed to have been passed.

Roman Heilmann, attorney for Williams, said he will seek to prove that his client violated the law unintentionally, if at all.

The court deferred its ruling on a motion to suppress evidence seized at Williams' flat in Gary, Ind., last September. Motions for separate trials were denied.

POWERS AGREE ON TERMS OF FRENCH PLAN

General Outlines Win Support Despite Differences Over Details

London—(CP)—The five-power naval conference, sitting as a committee of the whole this afternoon, agreed provisionally on the general outlines of the French plan for limiting naval tonnage, a conference spokesman announced.

The Italians still entered reservations on all points. A sub-committee of two experts and one advisor from each delegation will be named to adjust certain technical differences between the two groups, namely, the British and Americans on one hand, and the French and Japanese on the other.

The sub-committee also will draft resolutions summarizing the progress which has been made.

MUST GIVE FIGURES

In the original French proposal blank spaces were left for the global or total tonnage figures of each nation. The meeting decided this afternoon that these figures should be inserted before the plan is finally adopted.

It was understood the French proposed that light cruisers and destroyers should be placed in one single category. Japan supported this but the United States and Great Britain opposed it. It finally was decided to leave this for further discussion by the experts.

Abolition of submarines will be favored by Great Britain at a public plenary session of the naval disarmament conference which will be held next Tuesday.

No formal understanding has been recorded, but it was said the United States and Great Britain, while advocating the abolition of submarines, were prepared to accept the French viewpoint which provides for continuation of this branch of navies, but with the application of "humanitarian" rules governing war activities.

France is supported by Japan and Italy, while willing to abolish submarines, insists on having them if France does.

BOB AND DEMOCRAT IN HEATED TARIFF DEBATE

Washington—(CP)—Two members of the Democratic and Republican independent groups who had united in voting against increases in industrial duties today over an argument with the present duty of 6 cents a pound on synthetic camphor.

Sensors LaFollette, Wisconsin, a leader of the Republican independents, and Harrison, Mississippi, a Democratic member of the finance committee, were the participants, with the former contending for a 1 cent rate previously approved by the senate at his request.

This was too great a reduction and LaFollette asserted that the tariff producers of synthetic camphor, used in the manufacture of safety glass for windshields should be given a chance to develop the industry. LaFollette took him to task for "jumping upon the high horse of protection."

THREE YOUTHS ADMIT STAGING BUS HOLDUP

Iron Mountain, Mich.—(CP)—George Corde, 21, who with his pals, Leonard Volter, 27, a former Harvard university student, and Alfred Ben-Mountain-Greer, 24, today gave a signed confession to police concerning the robbery.

The three Aurora, Ill., youths, according to the confession left their home after a drinking party for Gordon, Mich., to visit friends. The decision to leave was sudden and they arrived in Wisconsin without money.

To finance the trip, they decided to hold up a bus, Corde said.

First attempts at robbery on the Rock Island train were unsuccessful, Corde stated. Early Tuesday they halted a bus near Adams, Wis., but lost their nerve and allowed it to proceed unmolested.

Taft NEEDS REST, HIS PHYSICIAN DECLARES

Washington—(CP)—William Howard Taft was given a sleep producing drug by his physicians this afternoon. The doctors base much of their hope of prolonging Mr. Taft's life upon his obtaining rest.

It was noted last night when Dr. Thomas A. Clayton called that the former chief justice was awake. It is understood he was wakened much of this morning.

The visitors at the Taft home decreased materially today, there being only catering ladies compared with almost the steady stream of those appearing at the mansion yesterday to hand cards or messages.

Miner Slain In Quarrel About Union

Harrisburg, Ill.—(CP)—Elmer Hayes, 45, was shot and killed today in the office of James B. Lewis, counsel for Sub-District Number 11 of the United Mine Workers of America, in what authorities believe was an argument over factional strife in the miners' union. Charles Grace, legal investigator for the sub-district, is held in the county jail as Hayes' slayer.

Grace declined to make any statement, authorities were informed that he and Hayes were alone, in the office of Lewis at the time of the shooting.

Hayes was shot through the heart and died immediately. Sheriff Thomas J. Cain said that when he arrived and arrested Grace he searched Hayes' box blade open.

Grace would neither deny nor admit the shooting or explain whether any argument had taken place.

Hayes, a miner, was one of the men who finally recovered the body of Floyd Collins from Sand cave in the Mammoth cave region of Kentucky in 1925, after Collins had been pinned in the cave by a rock and perished.

SLAYS FATHER AFTER SERIES OF QUARRELS

Youth Held by Milwaukee Police Says He Fired After Hearing Threat

Milwaukee—(CP)—Gustave Tietz, 29, who shot and fatally wounded his father last night during a family quarrel, was released today by District Attorney George A. Bowman after the youth had convicted the official that he shot in self-defense.

Young Tietz said his father was about to strike him with a piece of iron, following the boy's attempts to quiet the family disturbance.

Milwaukee—(CP)—Culminating a long series of family quarrels, the last over presence of a sister-in-law in the home, Gustave Tietz, Jr., 20, shot and killed his father, Gustave Tietz, here last night.

Tietz was shot in the abdomen as he reached the height of a drunken outburst of his wife, daughters and sons.

Police of a nearby station, called seven times in the past to quell family disturbances had called at the Tietz home earlier in the evening and had apparently quieted the raging father. He started the earlier argument with the assertion that "there are too many mouths to feed here for what's coming in."

Young Tietz later went to a social center, but his mother called him shortly and told him his father was racing again.

He found his father in the kitchen cursing his wife, children and sister-in-law. Mrs. Helen Neubauer of Minneapolis.

The younger Tietz said his father slapped one of his sisters and that he went to a bedroom and armed himself to prevent violence on the part of his father. His father advanced on him, threatening to knock him down, the youth said and he fired.

POLICE AGAIN BREAK UP MEETING OF JOBLESS

Milwaukee—(CP)—For the second time in less than 24 hours, Milwaukee police were called upon to break up demonstrations of jobless men.

A crowd of men addressed by a speech orator in front of an employment agency was dispersed by police this morning. No arrests were made. The speaker, however, promised there would be a citywide demonstration against present conditions of unemployment right at the time everyone is getting about prospering.

Milwaukee housewives can provide work during the slack season by doing the spring housecleaning with the Council of Social Agencies industrial relations committee suggested today. Other spring operations such as remodeling, redecorating and repainting could well be done, the committee said.

2 MORE FOUND GUILTY OF ASSISTING VOELZ

Milwaukee—(CP)—Charles J. Burkhardt, burlesque comedian and former assistant manager of the Harrogate Dramatic club of the University of Wisconsin and Louis H. Frank, Chicago racehorse bookie, today were found guilty of aiding Erwin F. C. Volz, former manager of the National Bank of Commerce Savings department, in embezzling bank funds. They were found guilty on each of seven counts.

A jury last night gave a sealed verdict to Federal Judge P. A. Geleher who read the finding in court this morning. It is expected sentence will be imposed this afternoon.

MEXICO'S NEW CHIEF BACK AT POST IN WEEK

ATTACK "COWARDLY" HOOVER SAYS IN MESSAGE TO RUBIO

Washington—(CP)—President Hoover through the state department today communicated to President Ortiz Rubio of Mexico his pleasure that the Mexican chief had escaped serious injury when shot yesterday by a would-be assassin.

While deeply distressed to learn of the cowardly attack made on you and your family, Mrs. Hoover and I rejoice with the American people that you and Senora de Ortiz Rubio have suffered no serious harm and that you have been spared to carry on your constructive program. Please accept our most cordial wishes for your complete recovery and be assured that the government of the United States earnestly trusts that Mexico, under your wise and able guidance, will enjoy an era of spiritual and economic progress.

"Herbert Hoover".

His physicians and his secretary, who was with him when the attempt was made on his life, believed he would recover sufficiently within about a week to assume the duties of his new office.

Meanwhile, Emilio Portes Gil, who turned the presidency over to Ortiz Rubio, in his new capacity of minister of the interior in the newly organized government, conducted an investigation of the shooting which he believed was the development of a widespread plot.

The assassin himself was held in the Mexico City military headquarters, the subject of almost continuous questioning since 2:29 p. m. yesterday.

CIVIL SERVICE CHIEF RESIGNS HIS POSITION

Washington—(CP)—President Hoover, in accepting the resignation of William C. Deming as president of the Civil Service commission, has asserted that the date of acceptance will be left open. Mr. Deming has agreed to continue his duties until relieved. The president expressed sincere regret at Deming's departure.

"The long and efficient service you have given has contributed to the upbuilding of the government," said Mr. Hoover, "and I am proud of the office which has been the object of all members of the government as well as the public at large. I am confident that the high standards which you have set will be maintained by your personal affairs will find your return to public service."

Deming has been named, and as a candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination from Wisconsin to succeed the late Senator Warren.

Dry Unit Transfer Bill Given House By Sponsor

Washington—(CP)—The Williamson bill to transfer the prohibition enforcement was from the treasury to the department of justice was presented to the house today by its sponsor with a plea to make prohibition as "bone dry" as possible.

Representative Williamson, Republican, South Dakota, author of the measure to carry out President Hoover's recommendation, today introduced prohibition enforcement as the most difficult problem before the chief executive.

He warned the house that the fundamental is ordered, to be duly enacted laws that no government can long survive large scale violations of enactments in which a considerable majority of the people show a deep personal interest.

"It follows," Williamson continued, "that the government must use every means at its disposal to secure observance of whatever laws are placed upon its books or run the chance that all laws will come to be regarded as mere paper."

ACT ON CRIME BOARD'S PLAN, MEMBER ASKS

Urges Congress to Give Commissioners Power to Try Petty Cases

Washington—(CP)—Urging that United States commissioners be given power to try slight or casual violations of the dry laws, Roscoe Pound of the National Law Enforcement commission asserted today before the House judiciary committee that crime had increased enormously in recent years and that federal courts congested had been a result.

Pound, who appeared with Chairman Wickham of the commission, said a serious condition existed in the federal courts because of the congestion.

He testified that "harmless or trifling offenses" where prohibition law violators were tried wholesale to clear federal court dockets, had impaired the dignity of the courts. He added that in consequence the people were losing respect for the courts and for the law.

SAYS CRIME INCREASES Harvard Law Dean States "Bargain Days" Impair Dignity of Courts

Washington—(CP)—Urging that United States commissioners be given power to try slight or casual violations of the dry laws, Roscoe Pound of the National Law Enforcement commission asserted today before the House judiciary committee that crime had increased enormously in recent years and that federal courts congested had been a result.

Pound, who appeared with Chairman Wickham of the commission, said a serious condition existed in the federal courts because of the congestion.

HAS CONGRESS APPROVAL Pound, who is a dean of the Harvard Law School, asserted congress has already approved methods of disposing of minor cases recommended by the commission.

The judiciary committee is considering the bill introduced by Representative "Christopher" Benson of South Dakota, which would give federal commissioners the power to try casual violations.

When the commission began the study to relieve federal court congestion, he said, its members considered three plans. One was to increase the number of federal judges, which he explained was undesirable because the judges would be appointed for life for a temporary situation. The second considered setting up federal police courts, which also was not desired for the same reason.

The third, on which the commission determined, he added, was to use the machinery already set up by giving the commissioners authority to hold summary trials of misdemeanor liquor cases.

Pound said the commission had not had an opportunity to study the jury situation except to determine that there was no problem of obtaining convictions.

CITES JONES LAW In the Jones law year and $10,000 law, he said, casual and slight offenses were "happily found."

"Under common law, he added, and in the judicial history of this country, petty cases were always recognizable.

He asserted, however, separation of slight or casual offenses from felonies was one of the problems. Infamous crimes, drawing penalties of imprisonment with hard labor, constituted felonies, he continued. Dean Pound asserted that in Section 6 of the constitution it was provided petty criminal cases could be tried without a jury. The recommendation of the commission, he added, was not new. He cited numerous cases in which it had been held that petty cases could be tried without a jury and an offender could waive jury trial if he desired.

Federal court congestion was not due alone to prohibition but also to the Dyer Automobile Theft act and other laws, Pound said.

The federal government, he added, in adopting the commissioner form of court, would follow state governments in dealing of petty cases.

NOT NEW IDEA After a lengthy legal defense of the enforcement commission's views, Pound said the idea that commission be given additional powers was nothing new. He referred to a number of cases in which it had been held that it was constitutional for the commissioners to have the power the Christopher bills would give them.

Pound added that a fine of $500 and six months in jail was "pretty well within the limits of the penal petty offenses."

Pound said the Jones law did not create an offense and contended this statement answered the charge that there could be no minor offense under it. He added it merely provided a range of penalties from a small fine and short sentence to a $10,000 fine and years in prison.

ZIMMERMAN MUST PAY FOR COSTS OF ACTION

Madison—(CP)—The supreme court yesterday ruled that Rudolph Zimmerman, Milwaukee, who successfully petitioned the court for an order restraining the state treasurer from paying increased salary to 1929 legislators, must pay the costs of the action.

Harry S. Sloan, attorney for Zimmerman, asked the court to have the state pay the costs of the action. Without leaving the bench the court reached the decision that the action was a private one and must be paid by the individual who started it.

Co-ops Require Contacts With Markets, Legge Says

DAIRY FARMS GETTING AID OF FARM BODY

Chairman Opposed to Advocacy of Large-scale Farming Under One Head

Madison (P)—Salvation for the nation's farmers lies in a "collective attitude" towards cooperative organizations to stabilize prices, Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm board, today told persons at the annual farm folks' week here.

"Grain, cotton and wool now have been aided," he said. "The board is working towards assisting the dairyman and the livestock raiser."

After his address, he said the board is working for organization of a co-operative in an effort to stabilize dairy products, but at the present time such organizations are widespread and not related.

The weakness of the cooperative today is that it has not gone far enough, Mr. Legge said, explaining "contacts with the terminal markets must be made. Carry the sale of the product to the processing plant."

DOESN'T ADJUST SELF

"Every well-organized industry adjusts its production to the demand," he said. "The farmer, however, fails and when prices are low, he raises more in order to tide him over until he can make more money. Thus the low-price commodity has an increased production."

Commenting on the advocacy of large-scale farming, through the plan of placing several thousands of acres under one management Mr. Legge said he was opposed to such moves.

"I think it is a mistake to strike at the individual farm. This great American institution is the bulwark of the nation."

The farm board through its loans to cooperatives, hopes to regulate output to measurable limits, Mr. Legge explained. The loans are to permit removal of surplus quantities from the market, he said.

Mr. Legge was introduced by Gov. Walter J. Kohler.

LAWRENCE DROPS FEWER STUDENTS

10 New Students Enroll at College as Second Semester Opens

Second semester registrations, completed this week at Lawrence college, show that fewer students dropped out than at this time a year ago, and enrollment of ten new students. Total enrollment exceeds the mid-year figure of a year ago by one student, according to reports compiled by college authorities.

At the beginning of the second term last year, 71 students who enrolled the first semester failed to register for the second term. The number who failed to register this year is 65. Withdrawals because of low grades head the list of reasons for the mid-year mortality, 13 students being listed in that classification. Poor scholarship and inability to meet college requirements caused 15 students, nine freshmen and six sophomores, to be dropped.

Financial difficulties caused at least nine students to leave, all of them either freshmen or second year students. The number of students transferring to other institutions totaled eight, six failed to register because of illness, and death claimed two. Senior class enrollments showed an increase of one student, the junior class numbers three more than last semester, the sophomore class lost 12, and the freshman class shows a decrease of 41 students.

PAROLE MAN WHO DID NOT SUPPORT FAMILY

August Drier, 29, Nichols, was sentenced to two years in the state reformatory at Green Bay by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Thursday morning when he pleaded guilty of non-support. Sentence was suspended and Drier was paroled to the state board of parole. He was arrested last week on complaint of his wife, Esther, who charged he failed to support her and their two children.

BRITTEN DESIGNS INSIGNIA OF NEW AIR MAIL STAMPS

Madison (P)—The insignia on the new air mail stamps to be released soon by the postoffice department, was designed by Col. H. Brittain of Northwest Airways, it was revealed today.

The design, a replica of the world with airman's "wings" attached, first was conceived by Col. Brittain as an insignia for fliers employed by the Chicago-Milwaukee-Twin Cities Airway and later was adopted by the postoffice department for all official mail aviators.

The new stamp uses the winged globe as the central figure, and is printed in purple ink to give air mail stamps instant recognition.

Shortage Of Cops Starts Crime Wave

Chicago (P)—Police Commissioner William Russell does not regard Chicago's present crime situation as bad "when it is considered that the police are not being paid and 5,000 more men are needed to probably protect the community."

The commissioner commented last night in connection with the seven gang slayings and two gang attacks within the last week.

He blamed lawlessness in Chicago, "as in the nation," on prohibition, explaining that bootleggers and racketeers, having no recourse to the established law, "settle their differences with guns and bombs."

"I haven't heard of any decent persons being killed," he said. "As for bombings, there have been two convictions and 14 arrests under State's Attorney Swanson, and that's more than there were for 20 years previous to his incumbency."

"We can't stop bombing because the victims refuse to co-operate with us. Most of those people know, just as do the hoodlums and gangster who is shot down, why they 'got it,' but they won't tell police."

Business men today were taking an active interest in the effort to halt the latest crime outbreak. The Landis Award Employers' association announced it had employed a law firm in an attempt to bring to justice the men who shot down Philip H. Meagher, a superintendent of construction, yesterday while he was directing work in the new Lying-in hospital. The slitting, done on and owned by the University of Chicago, was attributed to labor trouble.

Samuel Madonia, who operated a fruit store in a west side building that was bombed early this week, has been booked on charges of murder and arson. The body of Vito Russo was found in the wreckage of the building. Police believe Russo was hired by Madonia to bomb the building and that he was the victim of a premature explosion. Madonia carried insurance on his stock, police said.

ORDINANCE FIXING CITY SALARIES IS PASSED BY COUNCIL

Boosts in Pay Recently Voted by Aldermen Are Made Certain

Salary increases for city officials and employees voted at the last meeting of the common council became legal Wednesday evening when the ordinance providing for the salary boost were passed.

The ordinance provides for increased remuneration for practically every official in the city hall. The office of mayor was made a full time position at a salary of $3,000. It formerly was $1,500. Aldermen's salaries remain at $300 a year, with an additional 50 cents an hour for committee service, with a minimum of five hours.

The salaries of the city clerk, treasurer, and assessor were raised $200 a year, from $2,500 to $2,700, and the city attorney's salary went from $2,400 to $2,600. Both the fire and police chiefs' salaries were increased $10 a month, giving them $2,820 instead of $2,700 a year. All members of both departments were raised $5 a month.

Other increases included physician $150; secretary of weights and measures $100; weight master $100; post commissioner $100; janitor $60; plumbing inspector $100; building inspector $200; deputy health commissioner $200; nurse $600; and bridge tender $10. The salaries of the city nurse and deputy health officer, though contained for the first time in an ordinance, reached their present status through the action of the board of health a year ago.

In some instances, particularly that of the building inspector, the raises merely place in the annual salary the amount of money formerly was provided as car allowance. In the future no car allowances will be approved.

GIRLS POORLY PAID IN FIXED PRICE CHAIN

Average Wage for Female Workers Is $12 a Week, Survey Shows

Washington, D. C. (P)—The "phenomenal" increase in sales of chain stores of the 5 and 10 cent variety was held by the women's bureau of the department of labor not to have been paralleled by advances in wages to girl employees.

Many of them were said to receive insufficient pay "to procure the necessities of life," or an average of $12 a week. Mary Elizabeth Pidgeon of this bureau said this average applied in the last quarter of 1929 to slightly more than 6,000 girls in 179 limited price stores throughout 15 states and five additional cities.

CALIFORNIA AVERAGE $16

Only 1 per cent of the girls earned as much as $18 a week, while 70 per cent earned less than $15 and the others less than $10.

The fixed selling irrespective of locality of the stores does not prevail in regard to wages in the various states, the survey showed. In California the average was $16, the minimum wage permitted by law for experienced workers in that state.

In two five additional cities, average earnings were $12 in Boston, $12 in Indianapolis, $14 in New York and Milwaukee, and $13 in Chicago.

MISS CORNELL DOES WELL IN MELODRAMA OF STAGEY PATTERN

She Brings It Off Capitally With Personality and Voice

BY RICHARD LOCKRIDGE

Dramatic Critic of New York Sun

New York (CPA)—Katharine Cornell, who seems to have inherited the curse which once followed her own Irish half and forbade that she ever be let off anything, now lends her romantic personality and matchless voice to a murder melodrama of rather stagey pattern and occasional floridity. She brings it off capitally, makes many passages exciting and almost in the end makes it possible for the audience to believe that the character deserved better than she got. Deserving better than they get, I take it, almost a duty of romantic heroines.

This play, which is by Margaret Ayer Barnes and Edward Sheldon, is called "Dishonored Lady." It was presented Tuesday night by Gilbert Miller at the Empire theater. And aside from the fact that it is worthy neither of Miss Cornell nor of Mr. Miller, nor yet of the Empire, there is nothing very violent to be said against it.

PORTRAITS OLD STORY

It seems that Madeline Carr, a girl who could not keep from going wrong, permitted herself to become entangled with one Jose Moreno, fiery South American cabaret entertainer and thorough-going cad. And then she fell in love with a fine young English gentleman. Jose threatened her with exposure and struck her in the face when she called him a "South American rat." Every one quite agreed he was a rat, although there seemed little reason to tag South American rats. The North American stage has always displayed, among its villains, enough such rats.

It is further reported that Madeline, very desperate about it all, decides that the extermination of Jose was her only hope of escape. So she gave him—no, not rat poison—strychnine. And he died. She rubbed all the fingerprints away, but she left a clew.

A young district attorney, who put duty above friendship, questioned her in her own drawing room—and had her interviewed by the servant and the mistress of the murdered man. And what then was there for her to do but call upon Larry, her old loyal friend, and before her shocked family, have Larry tie for her, saying that she had been with him all that night?

You can probably go on with the story. If you cannot it makes very little difference. It is not precisely novel, nor does the play even pierce very deeply into the psychology of murder, from which good plays can and have been made.

Miss Cornell should not be called upon to devote her talents to what is, when everything is said, mere Broadway melodrama—not much better and not much worse than the average. Miss Cornell might, by now, very well insist that she be permitted to act in plays. She is a fine actress. It is time she was allowed to start from scratch.

CORRECT REAL ABUSES OF DRY LAW--WAGNER

New York Democratic Senator Calls Preliminary Report "Disappointing"

Washington (P)—President Hoover and his law enforcement commission were called upon in the senate today by Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, to "uncover the real abuses of prohibition and to propose remedies for their correction."

In the first speech in the senate on the preliminary report of the commission, the New York senator described it as "disappointing" as it failed severely some of its recommendations and concluded that Mr. Hoover's original pronouncement for a study of prohibition "started out in hopes but ended in sad neglect."

Senator Wagner, a wet, was a "wet" of the New York state public before entering the senate and he was of particular emphasis to an attack upon the commission's proposal to transfer trial of petty crimes to United States commissioners. He listed ten objections to this. In demanding that the law enforcement commission go directly into the merits of the prohibition law and the question of amending it, he withdrew his resolution proposing that the senate ask the president to order this course.

ON WRONG TRACK

"So far the commission has apparently attempted to cure the difficulties of prohibition not by looking to the law itself," he told the senate, "but by eliminating as far as possible the human agencies necessary in the enforcement of the law. With all due respect, I say the commission is on the wrong track."

Wagner said he wanted the investigative work of the commission redirected into important channels.

"Particularly," he said, "we want the commission to report upon the suitability of existing prohibition laws for the promotion of temperance and advisability of amending the prohibition laws to the end that we may have greater voluntary observance of the law and be spared the necessity of denying to those accused of violating it the due process of law guaranteed by the constitution."

DIFFERENCE IN LAWS

"Such an inquiry, Mr. President, presupposes the premise that the prohibition law is in a class by itself. We must, if we are to treat this problem realistically, recognize the difference between laws, which are universally approved, except by the criminal fringe of society, and laws which are violated and disregarded by large numbers of otherwise law abiding citizens without any compunctions of conscience."

"The abuses we considered," he added, "included the corruption and bribery of enforcement officials and the demoralizing hypocrisy of both officials and citizens in reference to this law. We were concerned with the rise of a new and powerful criminal class—the rum runner, the bootlegger, the high-jacker."

The senate listened attentively to the reading by Senator Wagner of his prohibition address. At the conclusion, Senator Elaine, Republican, Wisconsin, placed in the record a decision of the District of Columbia Circuit court of Appeals holding that every person indicted was entitled to the right of trial by a jury. Then the senate returned to the tariff.

LONSDORF IN ARGUMENT BEFORE SUPREME COURT

John A. Lonsdorf, attorney, left Thursday morning for Madison where he was scheduled to appear before the supreme court for arguments in the case of Tillie Schabo, administratrix of the estate of Henry Schabo, versus the Wolf Pepper Transportation and Storage company of Eau Claire. A circuit court jury here awarded Mrs. Schabo damages in her suit against the company but Judge Edgar W. Werner set the verdict aside. An appeal was taken to the supreme court. The Schabo estate sued to recover damages for the death of Mr. Schabo, who died following a collision between the car he was driving and a truck owned by the Eau Claire company on Highway 10 near Appleton more than a year ago.

Free Broker On Promise Of Ransom

New Haven, Conn. (P)—Saying that he had been released on a promise to pay $25,000 ransom to kidnapers, Max Price, wealthy 66-year-old real estate broker, returned to his home today after eight days of enforced bondage.

Search for Price which had been carried on throughout Connecticut and in New York City, was ended at midnight.

He walked into the Bridgeport railroad station. Taken to police headquarters, he told officers, "I've been through hell."

Trembling, stubbled-bearded, and wearied by five miles of walking from the countryside where he had been thrown out of an automobile by his captors, he told of having been tied to a bed for eight days, blindfolded even while being fed, with his captors continually demanding ransom.

He said his captors offered to let him go if he would promise to pay $25,000 on returning home. He agreed, he said, and received his freedom, his watch and $1. Still blindfolded, he was placed in an automobile and driven for an hour and a half, he said, and then tossed out of the car.

He said he was in the yard next to his home here on the evening of Jan. 23 when men seized him from behind, gagged him and then took him by automobile to the house in which he was held.

After his disappearance police were "tipped" that he was held by kidnapers in New York for $20,000 ransom.

After a trip to New York by his brother, Abraham B. Price, and detectives, two men were arrested in the metropolis, four here and two in Bridgeport. They are held on technical charges of idleness in bonds of $25,000 each, and are alleged to be "contact" men for a kidnaping gang.

Fewer Alcoholism Deaths Under Dry Law, Is Claim

Evanston, Ill. (P)—The Woman's Christian Temperance union today issued a report on alcoholism mortality in 45 states to substantiate its claim that prohibition "has saved at least 25,000 lives that would have been lost had pre-prohibition alcoholism death rates continued."

The report said its findings were based on data furnished by the U. S. Bureau of Census, covering the period from 1910 to 1929.

Maryland is listed in the report as the only state in which "Alcoholism was mounted higher under prohibition than in the saloon era. New York furnishes a fifth of all the alcoholism in the country and yet has never reached its record for the saloon days."

Continuing, the report said: "Alcoholism killed 4,627 people in the United States last year. That death rate was 4 per hundred thousand. Had alcoholism killed at the rate of 6.6 per hundred thousand which flourished in 1916, the height of the saloon era, there would have been 7,593 deaths. Credit 3,553 to prohibition."

SAFETY GROUPS TO MEET IN SECTIONS

Schedule Eight Divisional Meetings; Close School on March 4

Eight sectional meetings of the Appleton Safety school are scheduled for next Tuesday evening at Appleton hotel, according to Herb Hellig, director. The following division will meet: Pulp and paper, public utilities, metal working, construction and woodworking sections.

Two more sectional conferences are to be held during the next two weeks and on the evening of March 4 the school will come to a close with a banquet at Conway hotel. George P. Hambrecht, state director of vocational education at Madison, will be the principal speaker.

The enrollment in the safety school is well over 700 this year, which far exceeds the number last year. Those in charge of the school, however, are not so much interested in the size of the class, as in the solution of actual safety problems confronting workmen.

The safety school is sponsored by the vocational school with the cooperation of industrial plants of Appleton, Kimberly, Little Chute, Combined Locks and Kaukauna.

LEGION PROBES FIND POOR HOME IS SATISFACTORY

Alderman Vanderheyden Scores Legionaire Who Criticized Institution

Discovering upon investigation that the city poor home is properly managed and offers adequate comforts to the inmates, the investigating committee of the American Legion submitted a report of its inspection trip to the common council Wednesday evening, stating that the management of the home is above criticism. The American Legion committee, made up of George Dame, George Bush and Peter Goertl, made an inspection of the city home Tuesday afternoon to ascertain the truth of statements disparaging the management of the institution. In their report they state that of the 19 inmates they talked with 17 and of his number 15 were entirely satisfied with the place, while two felt they did not get enough attention. The committee found that the institution is run as a home and not as a jail, that the food is well cooked and abundant and that the beds are clean and sanitary.

Following the reading of the report, Alderman W. H. Vanderheyden, chairman of the poor committee, scored the Legionnaire who spoke before the American Legion Monday night on conditions at the city home, criticizing him for having spoken before he had made an investigation and declaring that it is poor citizenship to belittle the council and the poor committee in this manner. Alderman Vanderheyden, terming the Legion speech a "piece of flattery," stated that it indicated "poor citizenship" on the part of the speaker.

ROAD COMMITTEE WILL OPEN BIDS ON ADDITION

Bids on two proposed additions to the county garage on Highway 76 will be opened by the county highway committee next Monday afternoon. One of the additions is to be 100 feet long and 70 feet wide. It will house the machine shop. The other addition is to be much smaller and will be used to store oils. Bids on both the additions will be referred to the county board which convenes Tuesday.

Chimney Fire
The fire department was called to the residence of A. S. Woodard, 301 W. Winnelago street, about 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon when a chimney fire broke out. No damage resulted.

John Vanderheyden, terming the Legion speech a "piece of flattery," stated that it indicated "poor citizenship" on the part of the speaker. The discontinuance of the city home as a haven for the poor and the transformation of the building into a school for crippled children was suggested to the common council by Mayor A. C. Hall upon the suggestion of members of the city council. This night was referred to the poor committee for report. Stating that the city home is a city home for the poor, the city council members agreed that the city home should be a place where the poor could be trained and that city inmates be boarded out. It was thought, will eventually force the county to provide a poor home and will leave the city home for use as a home for crippled children.

Council Approves Abandonment Of Street Car Line

BUS SERVICE IS PROMISED BY UTILITY

Power Company Promises to Tear Up Rails and Repair Streets

The common council last night, by a vote of 11 to 1, adopted a resolution stating that the city has no objection to the abandonment of the local street car line by the Wisconsin Municipal Power Co. Alderman George T. Richard, Third ward, voted against the resolution, explaining that he did not believe this action should be taken until after a public hearing was held by the council.

The council adopted the resolution after A. E. Ellis representing the power company agreed to substitute bus service for the street cars, and to tear up all the rails and repair the streets during next summer. Originally Mr. Ellis offered to tear up the rails on unpaved streets when these streets are to be paved and to cover the rails on paved streets with asphalt until a new paving is ordered. Mr. Ellis said the street railway permit under which the company operates does not require the company to repair streets when rails are removed.

Mr. Ellis said street car service would be abandoned whether the council gave or withheld its approval because it was not compelled to continue operating at a loss. He said bus service would be given on the streets now covered by the street cars and he offered to turn the operation of busses over to anyone the council would suggest.

Alderman George Packard questioned the permanence of the bus service proposed by the power company, contending that if the street car line is discontinued because of a loss to the company, a similar loss on busses would bring about the discontinuance of that service, leaving Appleton without adequate transportation. Mr. Ellis retorted that the bus lines between Appleton, Kaukauna and Neenah are operating at a losing basis, and that they are still supplying transportation.

Discontinuance of the street car service was suggested to the power company on Jan. 18 by Mayor A. C. Rule who had had a number of requests that agitation for the removal of the car line be instituted. Upon the receipt of Mr. Rule's letter, Mr. Ellis sent to the council a letter announcing the willingness of the company to comply with the mayor's request, and offering to provide bus service along the same route.

10 MORE DEPUTIES NAMED BY SHERIFF

Lappen Says Revocations Will Follow Complaints Against Officers

Ten more deputy sheriffs were appointed Thursday morning by Sheriff John Lappen, bringing the total number of appointments up to 26. Sheriff Lappen said that every appointment made to date had resulted from recommendations from responsible citizens with whom he was personally acquainted. Most of the new deputies, Sheriff Lappen said, are either constables or fire marshals in the districts where they reside or have been employed in the past as dance hall inspectors. Their records show they have given service, he said.

The sheriff said that he has given the same instructions to every deputy appointed so far. That is that their appointments will be revoked immediately if any complaints about their conduct are received. After Sheriff Lappen completes his deputy appointments he plans to classify each of the officers as to the kind of service they are expected to give.

The new deputies named Thursday are: W. R. Kreiss and Maurice E. Carter, Appleton; G. J. Brisse and Frank W. Ristow, Kimberly; H. J. Uiman, town of Greenville; Harold Alger, route 4, Kaukauna; Virgil Poole, Hortonville; Elwood Brewster, town of Liberty; Herman Abitz, Grand Haven; Arlo R. Nelson, town of Dale.

11 SNOWPLOWS AT WORK ON COUNTY ROADS

Eleven snow plows out all night on county highways, still were busy Thursday morning attempting to keep the roads open. Frank Appleton, highway commissioner, said that despite the snow fall and the accompanying wind, none of the roads were entirely blocked and any part of the county could be reached by automobile. He said the plows are rapidly putting the roads in better shape and that the drivers have been ordered to remain at work as long as the wind continues.

The Oldtimer Asks--

Do You Remember When—Many of the streets that are "through" streets today used to be "blind" streets coming up to a ravine and stopping?

If any one had predicted such things as telephones, electric lights, power, heat, refrigeration, automobiles and other gasoline motor developments, aviation, movies, talking machines, radio, X-ray, trolleys, the growth and development of Appleton, of Lawrence college, of the paper mill industry, of country roads, of Appleton streets, of Outagamie County Dairying, of printing and the type setting mechanical appliances used in business such as type writers, adding machines, numbering machines, meat cutting machines, slicing machines, etc., aluminum, safety razors, banking, life insurance, the United States as a world power, newspapers, magazines, advertising, package foods, chain stores, installment selling, mail order houses, washing machines, vacuum cleaners, dish washing machines, they would have been promptly and unanimously considered drunk or crazy or both?

GOVERNMENT KEEPS WATCHFUL EYE ON GARMENT STRIKERS

Continuance of Difficulties Apt to Have Far-reaching Effect

By J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1939, by Cross Press Washington—(CPA)—The strike of Ladies' Garment Workers union in New York is being watched closely by government officials here. There is every evidence that they stand ready to make valiant efforts to compose the difficulties which have taken over 35,000 dressmakers from their homes.

Government representatives are prepared to get in touch with the warring factions and adjudicate their differences provided the worker and employees are unable to get together promptly.

Meantime Governor Roosevelt has invited the opposing factions to a conference looking toward an early peace. The objects of the strikers are announced as the abolition of the sweat shop, the five-day, forty-hour week and an average pay of $40 a week. It is worthy of notice that the union leaders are directing their main attacks on the smaller manufacturers, who they say do not observe union rates and rules, rather than on the large shops where union scales are maintained.

FAR-REACHING EFFECT

It is not on the dress industry alone that the effects of the strike will fall and it is for this reason that the government officials are watching events anxiously. The strike, they say, may have a disturbing effect on the whole spring trade, especially the Easter business, all over the country. In the first place, the strike will affect the garment industry in New York in which some $50,000,000 is invested. The disruption of production will affect the wholesalers and jobbers, who either will not be able to get goods or will be uncertain as to the volume of dresses they can count on.

The retail merchants in all sections of the country are also affected. The Easter trade as one of the two big sales periods of the year and regard is as comparable as a sales producer to the Christmas holidays. If the retail merchants cannot secure dresses at the time they count on them for the Easter trade, it will mean a marked falling off in business volume and in profits for if the sales are not made in the pre-Easter period, they frequently are not made at all.

The effect of the strike extends also to the cutting up trades and to the makers of textiles and even to producers of rayon, cotton and wool. Wool prices now are close to cost of production and another blow would hit heavily on growers. There is a near shortage of goods used in clothing and a shortage would entail further curtailment.

The silk industry did better in 1939 than for some years but stocks of raw silks are heavy and the industry has been out of the woods so short a time that the shadow of depression still hangs over it.

Cotton textiles have shown improvement, but in goods used in clothing they are still in the doldrums. A check to the consumption of fabrics used in women's wear would be a sad blow to this industry.

RUBIO STRUCK BY BULLET 1ST DAY IN OFFICE

Plot by Followers of Deceased Candidate Blamed for Murder Attempt

terday when he fired six shots at the automobile of the president as he left his first cabinet meeting at the national palace. Seven others, their names undivulged, were held by the police.

SCENT WIDESPREAD PLOT

Police finally cottoned upon the assassin's identity as Daniel Flores, 22, from the little town of Charcos, San Luis Potosi. Although he carried a small picture of the Virgin of Guadalupe in his pocket they did not believe his crime had a religious motive, but laid it rather to a plot of "Vasconcelistas" as adherents of the deceased presidential candidate, Jose Vasconcelos, are known.

None of the six others wounded by the shots from Flores' gun was injured seriously. One of the six shots fired grazed the ear and scalp of Senora de Ortiz Rubio; another grazed the ear of the president's young niece, Senorita Maria Rosh, while the chauffeur of the presidential car has a bullet wound in his shoulder.

Three bystanders were wounded. One of them, J. Carmen Jimenez, still is in a hospital with a wound on his forehead. Two others whose names were not made public, received slight wounds.

AFTER CABINET MEETING

The president had just concluded his first meeting with his new cabinet when he was shot. The attempt was made. As his automobile departed from the palace from the gate of honor a well-dressed young man, standing behind the presidential guards, was seen to lift his arm and fire at the occupants. A motorcycle policeman, Jorge San Millan, a member of the presidential guards, jumped from his machine and with others overpowered the gunman who offered virtually no resistance and allowed himself to be taken into the palace. The president's chauffeur, meanwhile, despite his injuries, sped the car through the crowd which hardly knew what had happened, to a Red Cross hospital where the injured were treated.

Announcement that the president had been injured was not made until some time later. A censorship was placed on outgoing press matter and it was several hours later before the president's injury was known outside Mexico.

BULLET IS EXTRACTED

At the Red Cross hospital the bullet, which penetrated the president's cheek and lodged in his left jaw, was extracted easily under anesthetic and thereafter the president was removed to his home. His wife, niece and chauffeur also were treated at the hospital and left later for the presidential residence.

The minister of war, General Jacquin Amaro, participated in the questioning of Flores who declared he was a merchant and bore no personal ill will toward Senor Ortiz Rubio, but thought he should be removed from the presidency for the country's good.

He said he was not affiliated with Communists and had no religious prejudice but he was alleged to have admitted he was a "Vasconcelista." Despite his denial, the government believed the shooting developed from a well-prepared plot of "Vasconcelistas" origin.

Federal district authorities only last week claimed to have frustrated one such "Vasconcelista" plot with the arrest of 19 persons who allegedly planned to assassinate both Senor Ortiz Rubio and Emilio Portes Gil, and seize the government.

If that was the plan in this instance events did not develop as was hoped, for Mexico City, except for an air of anxiety for the president's safety, was quiet with little or no indications that anything unusual had happened. A crowd of about 60 demonstrated in front of the newspaper offices shouting, "Viva Ortiz Rubio" and "Death to political assassins."

PLANS OF ASSASSIN

Flores, who is of dark complexion and good appearance and attire, said he arrived in Mexico City Sunday and put up at a local hotel. Monday he bought a pistol and yesterday went to the National stadium, where the inauguration ceremony was held, seeking a favorable opportunity to shoot the president.

He was unable there to get near his victim. He tried at various places along the line of march before the palace to find the chance he was looking for then stationed himself outside the National palace door, where the crowd him diminished and he fired at the presidential car just as it left the building.

During the stadium ceremony, which 50,000 people, including 2,000 Americans, witnessed, a young woman and a man were detained by police on suspicion but afterwards were released. Police said they had no connection with the later shooting. A young woman was believed to have been near Flores, however, possibly to help in his escape. It was not divulged whether she was one of those arrested.

WOMAN GETS DIVORCE ON PLEA OF CRUELTY

Mrs. Meda Fergo, 29, Appleton, was granted an absolute divorce by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Thursday morning from her husband, T. Fergo, 23, Appleton, on charges of cruel and inhuman treatment. Mrs. Fergo claimed her husband struck her. Mr. Fergo did not make the attempt to contest the divorce. The Fergos were married Oct. 24, 1927, at Waukegan, Ill., and separated Jan. 22, 1939.

Lowered of Jose Vasconcelos. He told newspapermen that Senora de Ortiz Rubio had received an unsigned letter a few days ago which said her husband would not live to be inaugurated.

GIL'S STATEMENT

He followed this announcement with a signed statement in which he said the attempt was made. He said there were elements in the country which sought to cast the nation into chaos and ruin regardless of the method employed. He assured the public that the government was able to handle any situation which might develop and that it would punish severely any one acting against the public order.

General Plutarco Elias Calles, former president and Mexico's "strong man," did not attend the inauguration, a gesture which he was said to have hoped would signify to the Mexican public that he had removed himself entirely from the government and politics. His comment on the attempt against his friend's life was not immediately available.

General Jacquin Amaro, secretary of war, broadcast a message to the army calling on it to guard the public order and cooperate with the civil authorities in maintaining the tranquility of the nation. He asserted that the army's patriotism had been proved time and time again in moments of trial.

Herschel Johnson, and President Hoover's plenipotentiary for the inauguration, Reuben Clark, were the first diplomats to call at the national palace after the shooting and express their regrets. The paragon, Monsignor Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, sent a letter to the president and his wife in a similar vein. Other churchmen followed suit.

Troops patrolled the streets of the capital throughout the night as a precautionary measure, but no disorders were reported.

VASCONCELOS' STATEMENT

Los Angeles—(AP)—Commenting on the attempt to assassinate President Pascual Ortiz Rubio in Mexico City, Jose Vasconcelos last night reiterated his belief that "there can be no peace in Mexico until a free election is effected."

Vasconcelos was defeated by Ortiz Rubio for the presidency in the Mexican national election last fall.

"The present government of graft and murder must be superseded by a government of public opinion," Vasconcelos said. "During the past six years Calles (Plutarco Elias Calles) has been using the iron hand, the result of a half dozen revolutions and constant anarchy and trouble."

"It is sad to think of Ortiz Rubio being hurt, because he is nothing but a tool of Calles."

"I hope for peace in Mexico, but I know that peace never comes without justice, so let us hope for justice first."

Vasconcelos came to Los Angeles shortly after the election last fall. He now is instructor in Spanish language at the University of Southern California.

MORROW IS SHOCKED

London—(AP)—Dwight W. Morrow, American ambassador to Mexico, who is now serving in the American naval delegation, today sent a message of sympathy to President Ortiz Rubio. The message read:

MODEL PLANES TO BE SHOWN AT "Y"

A public exhibition of model airplanes made by Appleton boys will be held at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, Wednesday evening, Feb. 19, sponsors of the Aid Cadet chapter have decided. Guy Barlow is leader of the squadron.

The exhibition will include all planes made by Appleton boys, regardless of whether they belong to the air cadets. It will be held to stir up interest in the proposed organization.

FAIR, COLDER WEATHER PREDICTED FOR FRIDAY

Clear skies with a drop in the mercury will prevail in this vicinity for the next 24 hours, the weatherman says. Similar predictions have been circulating through out the middle west.

About an inch of snow fell here during the past 12 hours. Rain was reported in the southern part of the state Wednesday night, while heavy snow fell in the upper and lower lake regions.

Winds are shifting in the northwest, which is usually a good indication that a drop in the mercury can be expected.

LOSES $170,000 SUIT IN ALIENATION CASE

New York—(AP)—Alden S. Condit, who claims descent from John Alden, Puritan lover, today lost his alienation suit brought against his former parents-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Fenton D. Turck.

A failed verdict, reached by the jury last night, was read in court today by Justice Edward McGolrick. Condit was the only party to the suit present. Condit had claimed that the Turcks had induced his wife, Katherine Condit, to leave him. They denied the charge and in a counter claim said that Condit did not support their daughter and instead helped to spend the $300 monthly allowance she still received from her father.

The couple, married in November, 1925, separated in March, 1927, and were later divorced in Reno.

TRADES SCHOOL DIRECTOR SPEAKS TO KIWANIS CLUB

Herb Heilig Tells Service Club Members About Vocational Guidance

Vocational guidance is giving information, experience and advice in preparing a person for a vocation, Herb Heilig, director of Appleton Vocational school, told the Kiwanis club Wednesday noon at Conway hotel.

Differentiating between educational guidance and vocational guidance, Mr. Heilig outlined what he considered the purpose of educational guidance, beginning with the grades where children are given instruction in fundamental art of getting along in the world, the junior high school where the workaday world is revealed, where the horizon is pushed back and children learn what is expected of them in later life, and the senior high school where requirements of later life are impressed but where instruction that is carefully weak in guiding a student except in the direction of college training.

Vocational guidance as given in schools similar to Appleton vocational school throws a student into the shop environment, in contact with teachers of the world who have had training as tradesmen first, and then as teachers. The situation is such that it gives students during their training period a practical example of what they can expect after they leave school, Mr. Heilig said.

To further explain the continuing feature of vocational guidance, Mr. Heilig spoke of an elderly man in Appleton, who through night school and proper guidance, was able, at the advanced age, to secure training which enabled him to take another job, giving him work for many years as a stock clerk in an electrical department.

Mr. Heilig closed his talk with the comment that laymen, and especially members of service clubs such as the Kiwanis club, could help in vocational guidance work by being ready for call whenever they might be asked to give counsel out of their experiences.

DARK FUTURE SEEN FOR APPLETON POOR WHO RETAIN HEALTH

The future looks dark for the city poor who still retain enough strength to swing a shovel and a pick. The common council Wednesday approved appointment of a committee to seek a stone quarry for the city, the chief purpose of said stone quarry being to provide a workshop for those persons on the city poor list who claim they are unable to find work. Incidentally, it is promoted by Alderman W. H. Van der Heyden, chairman of the poor committee, that the stone quarry, worked by men who are a burden to the city, will provide material for the repair of Appleton streets at a much lower cost than it will be obtained now.

Objections were raised on the grounds that most of the city's dependents are physically unfit to do manual labor of this nature, and that equipment for the quarry would parallel the profit predicted by Mr. Vanderheyden. However, the resolution was adopted, and a committee will begin the search for a means of reducing the city's poor costs.

E. Murphy, league secretary.

An elaborate program of entertainment, including orchestral and vocal selections, is being arranged. All sportsmen of Appleton and their wives are invited to the banquet, Mr. Murphy stated.

GUY SIEGEL LOSES HIGH COURT APPEAL

Guy Siegel, New London, will have to serve the four to eight year sentence imposed upon him by Judge Eyrone B. Park in circuit court on Nov. 24, 1928, the state supreme court decided Tuesday when it affirmed the lower court's sentence.

Attorneys for Siegel had appealed to the high court on a technical question involving the wording of the original sentence and a change in records. The supreme court held the circuit judge was within his rights in making the change.

Siegel was tried and sentenced on a charge of changing engine numbers on stolen automobiles and with receiving stolen cars.

Flashes of Life

Miami, Fla. — Ha, ha, ha, California! We have with us at present in the salubrious clime of the southern part of this great and glorious state Rocketteller, Edison, Ford, Flanagan, Al Smith, Mrs. James H. Tunney, Babe Ruth and Jack Sharkey; Hoover and Jimmy Walker are coming soon.

London—The Duke of York is proud of the accomplishments of British forces. Awarding medals at a banquet he mentioned that he himself became a pilot although he has not flown recently. He added: "My brother, the prince of Wales, is the owner of an airplane and make full use of it whenever he can find opportunity."

Princeton, N. J.—John E. Baker of Lake Forest, Ill., in the bluish chips as the result of doubts of Princeton classmates about his ability. He walked from Times square, New York, to Nassau hall, Princeton, 48 miles, in 11 hours 12 minutes, thereby winning a wager that he could not do it in less than 12 hours.

New York—The latest thing in electric signs on the Great White way shows a stout woman doing gymnastics and four thin flappers. The idea is to advertise cigarettes. The first showing caused such a traffic congestion that the police had the sign turned off.

BEG PARDON

The large picture of the former Ryan high school, recently received by the Appleton high school, was the gift of J. C. Ryan, who had the picture framed for the school. A story in Wednesday's issue of the Post-Crescent stated that the picture had been found by William Elgert.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

A marriage license was issued Thursday by John E. Hantschel, county clerk, to Gordon E. Deber, Stevens Point and Mary Elizabeth Thom, Appleton.

tion of Memorial chapel and at the time of the erection of the Memorial bridge he donated to the city a strip of land for the approach to the new bridge.

The Appleton pioneer, the last but one of ten children of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Priest, natives of New York, was born in Waukesha co. and came to Appleton with his parents when he was 16 months old. The Priest family arrived in Appleton on Christmas Day, 1849, to make their home in a wilderness inhabited by Indians. The first log ever sawed in this city was cut to build the Priest home on a government claim about two miles north of Appleton, on the old Johnson-rd. Henry Priest, who had been assisting in the building of Appleton's first sawmill for several months prior to the arrival of his family, left his work to farm on his 160-acre claim. After three years of farming in the wilderness, during which period the large family had only one sack of flour and no meat except the game that was killed, they moved to the site now occupied by the A. G. Meadman home on Grand-st.

OPERATED SAWMILL

Albert, the eighth child of the Priest family, received his education in the public schools of Appleton and while still a boy began working for his father in the sawmill. In 1859 he went to Kaukauna where he worked in various mills until 1875, when he became proprietor of a planing-mill, in which plant he put the first planers ever used in Appleton. At the same time he operated a sawmill at Appleton and in 1882 he built the Fox River Paper and Pulp mill, conducting it until 1890, when it was leased to Oscar Thilmann.

DESPOILING THE INDIANS

It does not seem necessary to despoil the Menominee Indian reservation of its chief natural beauty by damming the Wolf river in order to squeeze out a little more hydro electric power. It seems to us that this is carrying greed and commercialism to about the last ditch. There are many things in this life and this world worth more than money, and the preservation of certain of the few remaining beauty spots untouched by man is among them.

We do not contend that from their standpoint the Menominee Indians ought not to sell or lease their property. They have a right to commercialize their holdings the same as the white man has done with practically all of his. Moreover, they are far less able to protect themselves in the utilization of their possessions. They have been so long mistreated by politicians and mismanaged by the federal government that they do not know where they are at, much less what to expect.

The Menominees are reputed to be one of the wealthiest tribes in America. All kinds of estimates are placed on the value of their reservation. It is said that the remaining standing timber is alone worth in the neighborhood of $2,000,000. They have a large sum of money out at interest. Cong. Schneider figures that they are easily worth $27,000 per family in tribal property. Something is wrong when Indians so favorably situated feel compelled to "submit to the exploitation of water power in the Wolf river for a paltry return of $30 per head, and that is what it is estimated the lease rental will yield. That something is in federal administration of Indian affairs, past and present. This administration has been weak, neglectful, selfish and to a large extent ignorant.

The treatment of many Indians, and probably most Indians, is a national scandal. Some of them have been robbed of their rights and possessions and others have been bled without mercy. In a general way, none of them have had the educational, economic and social guidance the nation owed them. The Oneidas were no exception, neither are the Menominees. It is absurd to say that under the right kind of management a tribe like the Menominees, owning a reservation of great value and productivity, could not be turned into self-reliant and self-supporting citizens. The government has had generations in which to accomplish this work. It has made the Indian a ward and has poorly discharged its trust.

If the Wolf river is turned over to power interests for defacement it will be because government delinquency has maneuvered its owners into a position where it was inevitable. In this connection it must also be borne in mind that the state of Wisconsin is singularly indifferent to the fate of this outstanding natural resource. To be sure, thousands of men and women and many organizations are actively opposing the exploitation, but the state as an entity is asleep. We trust that Senator La Follette and Cong. Schneider will continue to give their close attention to developments in connection with the Menominee reservation and the leasing of the Wolf river, and that they will fight power development there with any means or alternatives that have a due regard for the interests of the Indians themselves.

THE LAKE STATES' POSITION

The Lake states have in turn filed their bill of exceptions in the supreme court of the United States to the findings of Special Master Charles E. Hughes in the lake diversion controversy. Although Mr. Hughes' findings were in a general way entirely favorable to the contentions of the lake states, they asked the court to go farther in its decree than the special master recommends. They would have all diversion of water into the drainage canal for sanitary purposes stopped by the year 1938. They demand that Chicago be compelled to construct sewage disposal works of varying types to take care of all sewage. They deny that the drainage canal is a part of the navigable waters of the United States and subject to jurisdiction of the secretary of war; also, that no diversion of water at Lockport is necessary to maintain navigation in the Chicago river. Finally, they insist that the waters of the Great lakes belong to the contiguous states and the Dominion of Canada, and that congress has no right to divert them to another watershed.

Regardless of what the supreme court may decide, we think that the position the lake states have taken is right and represents sound public policy. Chicago should be compelled to install adequate sewage disposal works, either of a mechanical nature or for the conveyance of sewage to some distant spot in Lake Michigan, and it should be required to do this without further delay. We do not believe it or the Mississippi valley has a right to abstract water in such quantities from the Great lakes as to materially lower their levels or injure or endanger navigation.

Questions of the greatest importance touching state rights and proprietorship in large bodies of water are involved in this case. If the contentions of Chicago are valid then congress can authorize it to abstract as much water as it desires from the Great Lakes regardless of the effects, and congress could even go so far as to refill the Mississippi river, if its drainage basin failed to supply it, with enough water to carry its commerce, even if it depleted the Great lakes to the extent of heavily impairing navigation there. We do not believe that principle is just or right or sound. Congress has the power to regulate navigation in the Great lakes and to engage in harbor and other improvements, but it ought not to have the power to destroy what nature has given to the surrounding states, including Canada, for their enjoyment and well-being without their consent.

AMERICAN WEALTH

A recent estimate gives the income of the American people as over $90,000,000,000 a year, and the per capita income as $750 a year. This presumably means about $3,500 per family. It is, of course, the largest income of any nation in the world. We are said to own 33 per cent of all the material wealth on this planet, 44 per cent of the world's railways, 50 per cent of its gold. We produce 60 per cent of the world's cotton, 66 per cent of its oil, 70 per cent of its copper, 75 per cent of its corn, 85 per cent of its lumber and 85 per cent of its automobiles.

But we should not be vain or boastful. Some of this leadership won't last forever. We are rapidly using up our oil, our lumber and some of our other natural resources, including the fertility of our soil. Great Britain owns and controls a far larger area than we do, with greater potential resources. Russia's natural and human resources are immense, and she is a youthful nation, just starting her industrial career.

A statistician reminds us, too, that along with our other records we should claim the world leadership in accidents, crime and divorce. Also in luxurious self-indulgence, which takes one-third of our vast income. Have we gained our wealth and power from superiority and deservingness? It is natural for successful individuals to think so. We have surely deserved some of it, at any rate. But much has probably come from luck or chance. We had the opportunity, in a new land of vast resources. We still profit from the start that fortune gave us. Our success in the future may depend more on our own unaided efforts.

WAR WITH TRIPOLI

On Feb. 6, 1904, the war between the United States and Tripoli opened with the arrival of an American squadron in the Mediterranean. The squadron was sent at the order of President Jefferson after the pasha of Tripoli declared war against the United States because we had not promptly met his demands for money—a tribute he was in the habit of receiving each year to keep him from seizing American vessels. Under the direction of Commodore Preble, the small American fleet gained a brilliant triumph over the Barbary pirates.

Up to this time the Mohammedan states of Tripoli and Tunis, Algiers and Morocco, had long made a business of piracy. Their cruisers swarmed upon the Mediterranean and the Atlantic and robbed merchant ships. Oftentimes distinguished captives were held for ransom and others were sold as slaves.

With the cessation of hostilities in the Tripoli, the pasha speedily dropped his demands and begged for peace.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

To Poland or Russia
I feel that your ideas are wasted here, most of us being 10 years in advance of you. You should go to Poland or Russia where your opinions on parental authority would be more appreciated. I have recently come from a large university where girls of the best families (and the dean of women, too, for that matter) smoke cigars and no one thinks any the less of them for it.

(R. F. R.)
Answer—I have said repeatedly that there is no hygienic objection to an adult smoking, provided he or she indulges temperately. University students are or should be adults in character. When mere high school children show precocity in this, I believe they should be first instructed by parents or guardians, and if that is not sufficient, then rigidly disciplined by the school authorities, and if that fails then punished by the law.

Frostbitten Toe
Kindly advise what to do for a frost bitten toe that is swollen and quite troublesome. (Mrs. C. J. L.)
Answer—I do not know. It depends on individual circumstances. It should be cared for by a physician.

Cooking Utensils
What do you consider the best metal for cooking utensils? How about aluminum? What will clean aluminum when it becomes stained or blackened? (F. O.)
Answer—Aluminum is as good as any other metal, from the health viewpoint. A reader tells me that boiling some tomato in aluminum will brighten and clean it. (Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

"I'll tell you what we ought to do," said Clowry. "All the rest of you go 'round and gather up some grass and pile it way up high. Then, when a nice soft pile is made, 'I'll jump in it. I'm not afraid. Of course you may not find enough. At least, though, you can try."

Then Coppy said, "That would be sport, but all the grass is much too short. 'Would take us days and days and days to gather up enough. I wish there was a haystack near. We'd gladly lug it over here. I'm sure that would be lotter cause it's soft and fluffy stuff."

This made wee Scouty laugh aloud. Said he, "We are a silly crowd. We make a lot of wishes, but such wishes don't come true. There is no hay. I'm sure of that, so one more crazy wish falls flat. Come on, let's try and think of something possible to do."

And then a strange voice said, "Oh, gee, why don't you Tynmites call on me? It seems that you all want poor Clowry to be safe and sound. He's too high up to take a jump cause he would only land kettinump. If you don't mind, I'll show you how to get him to the ground."

It was the scarecrow, speaking loud, which quite surprised the Tyn crowd. "Hurray for you," ere o them cried. "Please help us, if you can." The scarecrow moved a little bit and said, "Well, well I'm feeling all right. I'll gladly help you Tynites, though I'm just an old straw man."

At first it seemed he couldn't stand but then he reached up with his hand and grabbed scared Clowry, very tight and held him in the air. "Ha, ha," the scarecrow laughed. "Don't shake. I'm doing this for your own sake. I'm only mean to help you, not to give you all a scare."

The scarecrow goes riding in the next story.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington—Back in 1919, when republicans wrested control of the house of representatives from the democrats, Edmund Frederick Erk came in as clerk of the committee on foreign affairs.

Erg, kindly, and everlastingly at work, it was not long before Erk was a familiar figure on the hill. He had been secretary to Steve Porter of Pennsylvania before, and when Porter was made chairman of the foreign affairs committee the clerkship went to Erk.

Erk, a man of independent means, immediately made a hobby of his job. The salary was little inducement—committee clerks' annual pay is about $2,500—but Erk put all of his energy into it.

Often he may be found in his office on the gallery floor of the house wing as late as 4 o'clock in the morning at work. Regular hours mean little to him when there is something to be done.

Several years ago he started something that has made the name of Edmund Frederick Erk widely known, although very few people know the man personally.

The scheme costs him every year more than three times the salary he gets from the government. And the work involved is tremendous.

He got his idea from the custom of sending Christmas cards. Knowing that most Christmas cards get at the most a casual glance from the recipient, he decided that he would send a "card" that a person would be reluctant to throw away.

His card, however, has now grown into a booklet.

For instance, his Christmas greetings for 1929 contained 12 pages. Each cost him a little less than $1. Some 10,000 were sent out to acquaintances, including one to every ambassador, minister and consul in the diplomatic service of this country.

His greeting in 1929 was devoted to "Import international events of recent date promoting the sublimest enterprise of philanthropy that ever engaged the labors and affections of man—Peace on Earth."

Contained therein were a list of all important steps toward peace since 1927. There was a pictorial record of the various steps taken in concluding the Kellogg pact, a pictorial record of Ramsay MacDonald's visit to the United States, and at the end a facsimile of the Kellogg treaty showing the seals and signatures of the plenipotentiaries.

Another year he devoted his Christmas greetings to "The first-born documents of popular constitutional liberty." Twenty-nine pages were required in this instance. Here were grouped facsimiles and printed interpretations of "The Mayflower Compact," "Log of the Mayflower," "Declaration and Resolves of the First Continental Congress," "Virginia Bill of Rights," "The Declaration of Independence," "Articles of Confederation," "The Constitution of the United States," "Washington's Farewell Address," "The Monroe Doctrine," and "Lincoln's Gettysburg Address."

Erk does all the work of compiling his material and putting it in shape for the printer. He also bears all of the expense.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK
New York—Landlubbers who visit the annual motor boat show will see the kind of run running craft that keeps the coast guard active in the waters hereabout.

Not that any special boat for liquor smuggling will be on exhibition. But the various types of pleasure craft offered for the innocent navigation of coastal waters by the yachtsmen of Manhattan are the some ones employed by the outlaw fleet.

This word comes from a shipyard fellow, who reports that few run running boats are especially made for that purpose. The smugglers usually buy a new or second hand boat, rip out the interior fittings and equip the vessel with a quarter-inch steel plate and a speedier motor.

One of the few boats designed especially for liquor running was tied up for a time at Bayonne, N. J. It was all metal and of very deep draft to give it ample cargo space and yet make it appear to be a light and legal launch.

MAURICE DEKOBRA, Parisian author is in New York to get an eyeful of American women on their home grounds and to write about them for the European press. His articles are to be captioned "The Gallery of Modern Amazons."

When he leaves here, he will go to Palm Beach and on to South America. Then he will have traveled on every continent but Antarctica. Traveling is Dekobra's hobby. His bachelor apartment in Paris is decorated to represent a submarine, a sleeping car and a state room on a yacht. Paul Poiret designed it.

The author of "The Madonna of the Sleeping Cars" and other so-called romance romances finds New York a city well suited to his taste. He even looks a little like Mayor Walker.

He has not yet been lionized in America, but in Europe he is something of an idol like Maurice Chevalier. He has been besieged by the women of Bucharest, Budapest and Prague, while those of Berlin, Paris and Constantinople have sent him mass letters and bouquets.

It is all quite strange. The other day somebody even asked what it was that made the name Joyce Hawley famous.

Here were grouped facsimiles and printed interpretations of "The Mayflower Compact," "Log of the Mayflower," "Declaration and Resolves of the First Continental Congress," "Virginia Bill of Rights," "The Declaration of Independence," "Articles of Confederation," "The Constitution of the United States," "Washington's Farewell Address," "The Monroe Doctrine," and "Lincoln's Gettysburg Address."

FRENCH HOTEL OWNERS MUST DISGORG TIPS

Paris (AP)—Who gets the tips when hotels add 15 per cent "for service" is by way of being decided. Senator Justin Godart told parliament that many hotelkeepers took a considerable share for themselves. That is to be stopped by a law which already has passed the senate.

Tips in hotels which leave customers to fight their own way out past a line of extended palms seem to be growing. France's prosperity and years of publicity about Wall Street profits have whetted the appetites of those who receive.

Ten per cent is the unwritten law everywhere, but in the best restaurants 15 per cent is more usual. Then the wine steward, hat boy and doorman get in line for a few crumbs more.

and Joy Coon; six weeks, Joy Coon, Dorothy Blake, Charlotte Kettler, and Marion Rule, with Inez Spitzer and Ruth Barnes tied for fourth place. The semester average in points per pupil was 101.32, and for the six weeks, 133.46.

The race between 92 section and the eighth grade was close, the former ending the period with 35.47 points per pupil, and the eighth with 33.41.

STATE'S INTERNAL REVENUE IS LESS

Receipts Paid by Badger People to U. S. Three Million Less in 1929

(Post-Crescent—Washington Bureau) Washington—The internal revenue receipts paid to the Federal government by the people of Wisconsin decreased more than three million dollars in 1929 from the amount paid in 1928. The only increase in tax receipts in Wisconsin for 1929 was shown in the individual income tax returns.

Wisconsin paid $37,501,750.65 total internal revenue in 1929 as compared with $40,659,071.12 in 1928.

Of this total, $35,132,514.64 was for income tax, a decrease from $38,107,697.91 paid in 1928, and $1,464,235.41 for miscellaneous taxes, likewise a decrease from $2,551,373.21 in 1928.

Of the total income tax paid in Wisconsin, $22,375,077.09, a decrease from $23,461,329.70 of 1928, was paid by corporations, and $12,537,437.64, the only increase shown by the state over the 1928 total of $12,672,358.21, was paid by individuals.

Comparing the income tax payments of July to December 1928 with July to December 1929, the first six months of the fiscal years 1929 and 1930, we find the same situation. Decreases in all 1929 totals save a small increase in individual returns.

The total income tax for the period from July to December 1928 was $18,234,421, of which $12,770,355.55 was paid by corporations, and $5,464,065.55 by individuals. In the same periods in 1929 the total was $18,963,159.16 of which $11,144,242.23 was paid by corporations and $7,818,916.93 by individuals.

VATICAN OBSERVES 8TH ANNIVERSARY OF POPE'S ELECTION

Vatican City (AP)—The pontifical banner, yellow and white, bearing the insignia of the tiara or triple crown and the massive crossed keys of St. Peter below it, was run up this morning at dawn in the courtyard of St. Damiano, in the heart of the Vatican City state, to commemorate the eighth anniversary of Pope Pius XI's election to the highest office in the Catholic world.

In honor of the occasion, all the armed forces of the pope's domain—the resplendent Swiss guards, Noble guards, Palatine guards and Pontifical gendarmes, together with the women, put on their full dress uniforms before "first call" sounded, summoning them to duty. The Swiss listed their own particular standards and just outside the famous bronze door leading into the apostolic palace, to the right as one faces St. Peter's and the Vatican from the Piazza Rusticucci.

The clerical staff of the secretary of state's office was kept busy drafting replies to messages of congratulation to his holiness from all over the world. A telegram, the pope was still "the prisoner of the Vatican" today, he is, by virtue of the pontifical records signed on Feb. 12, 1922, a free and independent monarch in his own domain and many of the messages received touched on that fact.

Next Wednesday, Feb. 13, Pope Pius will attend a solemn high mass in the Sistine chapel, marking the eighth anniversary of his coronation as supreme pontiff. That

THE Story of Sue
by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

SUE stepped back from the window. There was no need to let Jack and Barbara know that she was watching them. But she could not remove her eyes from the slim, fairy-like figure, or the man to whom she kept lifting her golden head.

"Words of an old, old song that her grandmother had sung at candle-lighting time when she had visited her on a farm once upon a time, came back. 'If you can't get a blue bird a red bird would do...'

If she couldn't get Jack... would Harry do?"

The maid had touched the switch and a half dozen fat green lamps, whose soft, flickering shades were sprigged with old-fashioned apple blossoms, were filling their light. There was something quiet and peaceful about the room and Sue felt better.

She noticed that Sarah's bag, still unpacked, was standing in the room. Just as she caught sight of it, Sarah herself entered, eyes sparkling, cheeks flushed, hair tumbled.

"Oh Sue, it was a wonderful ride and we beat you by just 20 minutes! We're looking together. Isn't that glorious? What are you going to wear to dinner?"

She was slipping out of a tweed coat, handed with pink that Sue had seen her wear dozens of other times, and pulling a little brown hat from her hair. Evidently her new clothes were not for traveling. Sarah opened the bag and started to remove things. There wasn't a new dress among the things.

"I decided that country house parties needed old clothes," she said. "You look like a million dollars Sue. I didn't bring one new thing after all. I didn't want to spoil them."

"Sarah, you're a jewel," Sue said. "I honestly and openly. 'You did just because you knew I was coming in the same old clothes. Like the poor about the beggars coming to town. I'd be in the rags and tatters and you and Barbara in velvet gowns.'"

"All wrong, Sue. I didn't want to be bothered. That sleeveless green thing is going to dinner tonight. You brought your blue, didn't you? I like it."

Sue kept up a running fire of conversation all through the time they were dressing. "Who gets fitted tonight? I suppose you do, but you also have Harry, and the beguiling Jack. Miles is a mighty sweet boy, though."

"We don't look so bad, do we?" Sarah asked again when they were dressed and ready. Sue agreed.

"Twice-worn clothes aren't making me a bit unhappy. I feel that something glorious is going to happen."

"I wish I did," Sarah's face was serious suddenly and Sue, glancing at her quickly, noticed that there were circles under her eyes.

"But I thought you were awfully happy tonight..."

"I am. All the world's a stage, according to every writer since the famous William, and I usually like my part. Ready?"

As they turned on the winding stairway they saw Barbara below them, in a cloud of golden chiffon that made her dazzling and shining. The men paid court to the shingleness that was Barbara.

"Men are fools," Sarah whispered to Sue. "And women are cats. Let's go and take away some of her cream."

NEXT: A sudden storm.

During the fall and winter months, sausages are popular for breakfast, luncheon or dinner.

They are useful to give flavor to many interesting dishes and are a most attractive and appetizing garnish for roast chicken or turkey.

Sausage may be baked in a hot oven instead of fried on top of the stove, but no matter how it is cooked it must be well done.

Link sausage, country sausage and bulk sausage are all made from finely chopped pork. Both fat and lean meat are used, but never more

SAUSAGE ROLLS
Two cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, water, 4 parboiled small sausages.

Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Rub in butter and cut in water to make a soft dough. Put on a floured molding board and roll with a floured roller into a sheet about one-third inch thick. Cut into oblong pieces a little longer than the sausages and put a sausage in each. Fold edges together and place on an oiled and floured pan. Bake in a moderate oven until a golden brown. Serve with apple or cranberry sauce.

The fifth of a series of card parties given by the Christian Mothers society of St. Mary church will be held at 2:30 Friday afternoon at Columbia hall. Bridge and schafkopf will be played. Mrs. William Schulz will be chairman and will be assisted by Mrs. Mary Harrison and Mrs. Alex Mignon.

a combination is used, a characteristic word is used to define it. In order to insure thorough cooking without drying out and over cooking, it's an excellent idea to parboil thick sausage first. Be sure to prick the skin in several places to prevent bursting.

Combination dishes made with sausage are delicious. Potatoes stuffed with parboiled sausage, scalloped sweet potatoes and sausage, sausage and macaroni, rice and sausage, sausage in a casing of baking powder biscuit dough, are a few of the many ways sausage can be used to add variety to menu.

Meals should be carefully planned when sausage is to be the meat. Vegetables for bulk as well as mineral salts and vitamin content must be provided. Fruit or a light pudding lacking in fat makes a suitable dessert.

Sausage rolls are a good hearty luncheon dish.

GERMAN CLUB SELECTS ITS ANNUAL PLAY

The annual German club play, given by student members of the Lawrence college German club, will be the five-act comedy, "Mina van Barnhelm," by Lessing, this year. A cast of eight supports the story of a mistaken conflict between love and honor. The setting is in eighteenth century Germany.

The leading characters, Tellheim and Mina, are played by Carl Schiebeler, 112 W. Spencer-st, Appleton, and Huerta Mueller, Marinette. The character of Franziska, the maid, is portrayed by Irene Ungrodt, Washburn; the widow by Dorothy Krause, Antigo; Just, by Reinhold Vogt, 1743 N. Morrison-st, Appleton; and the innkeeper by Charles Perenboom, 333 W. Eighth-st, Appleton. Harold Wurtz, Fond du Lac, will assume the character of Count Bruchsal, and Adolph Rusch, Wabeno, will play the part of Tilgner.

The drama, now being rehearsed under the direction of G. C. Cast, professor of German at Lawrence college, will be presented in the Methodist church in the latter part of March.

MILITANT WOMEN BOTHER KENTUCKY LIQUOR DEALINGS

Convictions for Violations Numerous as Citizens Seek Good Liquor

EDITOR'S NOTE: (Kentucky, famed for its moonshine—which is still being made in the same old quantities by its mountaineers—trembles before the militant women drags L. F. Patton, special state writer for the Post-Crescent, describes in this dispatch how the W. C. T. U. keeps judges busy on liquor cases due to wide selling of modern distillations, but finds citizens sorely seeking liquor of quality and heartily tired of the old saloon.)

BY LEMUEL T. PATTON
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Frankfort, Ky. —(AP)—Kentucky, so far as records are obtainable, is piling up more convictions for liquor law violations, in proportion to population, than any other state in the union. Federal Judges A. M. J. Cochran, in the eastern district and Charles D. Dawson in the western are dealing the limit to large and small offenders — to the complete satisfaction of the Women's Christian Temperance union, the Anti-Saloon league and the League of Women Voters.

W. T. U. STRONG
There are unquestionably the dominant political organizations of the state. Here, in the home of such historic beverages as Ripper and Old Taylor, politicians tremble at the name of Mrs. Lucie Day Pickett, of Wilmore, head of the state W. C. T. U. This tireless and militant organization can raise blisters on the back of any statesman who dares to question the sanctity of the eighteenth amendment and never without its lash.

If there is surviving any old Kentucky colonel versed in the art and lore of mixing mint juleps, he is hiding somewhere back in the Cumberland mountains.

Former Senator A. O. Stanley let it be known recently that he might seek the Democratic nomination for the United States senatorship. Mr. Stanley is known to have somewhat unorthodox views on prohibition. He was informed by the League of Women Voters that his candidacy would not be acceptable and he was thereby counted out. He will not run. Here under the dome of Kentucky's beautiful state capitol, the Anti-Saloon league looks after its men in its own quiet and material way. Last year a measure for the repeal of the state enforcement act was introduced in the state legislature. It got two votes.

QUALITY IS BAD

The result of all this appears to be widespread complaint over the quality of liquor obtainable in Kentucky. This is abroad, particularly in Louisville and Lexington, a most dubious concoction of corn meal and sugar. In Louisville it is sold in speakeasies and more furtively distributed in Lexington, Covington and other cities. It is said by connoisseurs to be the most disappointing and disheartening of all illicit experiments now in circulation in the still experimenting states. Kentuckians admit all this, but there is a touch of the old state pride when they speak of the moonshine which comes down the hills.

The state public service laboratory at Lexington, recently making analyses of the various illegal beverages, found that Kentucky moonshine — that is the genuine old mountain stuff — was perhaps the least dangerous and the most potable of any post-Volstead liquor. There is more of this available down around Paducah, at the junction of the Ohio, Tennessee and Cumberland rivers, than in other cities.

The mountaineers are distilling it exactly as they did before the eighteenth amendment was adopted and if they have heard about the amendment, they do not see how it has changed their previously illegal status.

Accordingly, they still live in solitude in the Cumberland or Blue Ridge, with their razor back hogs and their stills and their squirrel guns and wait the moonshine down the rivers. It has not been found expedient to push the war very far into their territory.

There is no question of the complete political ascendancy of the drays in Kentucky. Veteran political observers, without exception, attribute Herbert Hoover's majority of 173,000 to the wet and dry issue.

The baffling fact that liquor is still comparatively easy to get, even in Louisville, home of A. C. Graham, head of the state Anti-Saloon league is partially explained by a degree of laxity in state and county enforcement, which even the fury of the controlling political groups has not been able to overcome. The big takings have been, for the most part, in the federal drug net.

While Kentucky has its share of crime and liquor, considerable surface appearances indicate that the state is riding itself of the more flagrant type of speakeasy which is swarming over eastern cities. The less heeded section of the populace, while sneaking wily and in whispers of the W. C. T. U., concedes that some progress has been made. A leading Frankfort business man said to this writer:

"It isn't safe to get mixed up in politics down here, if you're in business, but I didn't think this prohibition trouble is as bad as it might be. I never was for this Volstead law, but in some ways things are a lot better. Gun totin' has just about gone out of fashion.

We have a lot less killings and I figure, altogether, that considerably

DIAMONDS FISCHER'S

STAGE And SCREEN

SHOW BOAT

With virtually every large motion picture company in the industry bidding, Universal Pictures Corporation was the one which obtained the motion picture rights to Edna Ferber's best-selling novel, "Show Boat."

Made into a million dollar super-production, "Show Boat" will be shown at the Appleton theater starting Sunday with Laura La Plante and Joseph Schildkraut in the roles of the great lovers, Magnolia Hawks and Gaylord Ravenel, the latter star and a Mississippi river gambler, respectively.

Universal considers that it bought the motion picture rights at a bargain for $55,000. These rights were bought before the book had reached the peak of its sensational selling record and before Florence Ziegfeld had purchased it and made it into a musical extravaganza.

The price is considered small when it is remembered that Universal paid $250,000 for the rights to "Broadway" and other companies have paid as high for the screen and talking picture rights of other successful plays.

Harry Pollard directed "Show Boat" while the supporting cast includes Otis Harlan, Alma Rubens, Emily Fitzroy, Elsie Bartlett, Neely Edwards, Jane La Verne, Blanche Craig, Theodore Lorch, and many others.

MAY COMPROMISE ON TARIFF GROUP

would have to withstand all the political pressure that would be concentrated on his office. Under Representative Davenport's plan the executive could accept the recommendations of the tariff commission but congress could interpose an objection.

The advantage of the scheme lies in the fact that it would require a majority act of congress to disapprove the tentative action taken by the president. In other words minority groups would not have as much chance to get approval of their particular claims unless their cause happened to command the support of a substantial number in both houses. This would mean that the president and the tariff commission in most instances would control the situation, though here again on vital questions congress would probably, by joint resolution or otherwise, indicate its views to the chief executive.

MAY SMOOTH WAY

The Davenport compromise would on the other hand take care of many minor changes in the tariff some of them of an administrative nature, which would be exempted from economic conditions. The fact that Representative Davenport has introduced a bill separate from the tariff measure may mean that the house might discuss the question in advance of the receipt of the senate tariff bill. It might smooth the way for a compromise in conference.

It begins to look as if the flexible provisions will be the center of the controversy when the tariff bill gets into conference. The question is not altogether partisan as there are many members of the house who are staunch supporters of the president and who are not certain that they would like to see congress let go of its tariff making powers.

There is no longer any doubt of the constitutionality of the flexible provision and a delegation by congress of its duty-making authority, as the courts have already passed upon it. The first step was when congress delegated to the Interstate Commerce commission the right to fix rates of transportation in interstate commerce. The effort to get some kind of a commission to handle the tariff problem is a recognition of the difficulty of having 501 members of a legislative body try to handle the complicated questions that arise from time to time in the application of tariff principles.

Congress is coming to the idea of administrative commissions subject to control by the national legislature. And what happens to the tariff may become an important precedent in the handling of other problems that are partly judicial and partly administrative.

Less money goes for booze and I get more of it in here than I used to.

"It used to be pretty bad the way young people hung around saloons and we don't see so much of that now. People that have some sense and know how to behave themselves can get a pretty fair quality of moonshine at about $5 a gallon. Nobody of any account around here wants to see the old saloon back. I don't like the way this W. C. T. U. goes at it, but I suppose most of us would vote for the Volstead law if it was put to a vote."

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards' produce Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 50c, 10c.

Britain's Royal Family All Are Fond Of Their Fun

BY MILTON BRONNER
London. — A cynical British club man of the old school, sitting behind a plate glass window in Mayfield and pondering on the frequency with which England's royal house goes to dances, remarked the other day that the British empire is governed by "the dancing Windsor."

He justified his remark by pointing out that the royal family is "one of the dancing families there is."

For a time, to be sure, the House of Windsor did not dance. When King George lay near death with pneumonia, Queen Mary stood a devoted vigil at his bedside, day and night. The Prince of Wales made his famous dash home from Africa, and the younger dancing social engagements spent most of their time at Buckingham Palace.

But the king has regained his health, now and the dancing has been resumed.

King George himself does not dance very much. Queen Mary, however, is an ardent dancer. She prefers the old-fashioned measures, and gives the modern ball-room steps a cold and regal shoulder, having been heard to remark that she doesn't like jazz music at all.

Most of her dancing is done in Scotland. Every year she and King George spend part of their holidays in their great Scotch place, Balmoral Castle. And every year a great event is the dance they give there for their retainers. Queen Mary always takes an active part in these festivities, not only dancing the old-fashioned rounds with some of the gentlemen of the court, but also the retainers themselves.

WALES FAMOUS AS DANCER

The Prince of Wales, of course, is a famous dancer.

Not only has he traveled all over the world, making speeches, shaking hands and boosting the British empire; he has danced his way around as well. Whenever he visits in state there are sure to be balls in his honor.

The girls with whom the prince dances, indeed become temporarily famous. Not long ago, in a popular London musical revue, there was a song hit that ran, "I once danced with a man who danced with the Prince of Wales." This song, shown to the prince before being used, won an amused smile from the future king of England.

The heir to the throne simply dotes on jazz. He has a phonograph in his rooms at St. James Palace, and jazz tunes are about the only music this machine ever produces. When he goes to the exclusive Embassy Club he is sure to ask the orchestra to play some new dance hit.

During his father's recent illness, of course, Wales did not dance. But as soon as King George had recovered the prince was at it again with all his old enthusiasm. Just before leaving on his newest trip to Africa he attended a big dance given by Viscountess Furness, the former Thelma Morgan of New York.

Running Wales a close second as an indefatigable dancer is his youngest brother, Prince George, who, like his father, has spent years in the navy. Prince George's naval assignments have taken him to many parts of the world. In every port he has danced—showing great deftness, like Wales, in his choice of dancing partners.

A couple of years ago a slight operation was performed on Prince George's feet, and it was gravely announced in a London newspaper that this was being done so that he could dance more often.

The Queen of Norway, who is a sister of King George, is another ardent dancer. Several years ago while she was visiting here, she was dancing informally in the Carlton Hotel with a party of friends. The orchestra struck up a jazz tune, and the queen got up with one of the men at her table, stepped out on the floor and danced. To understand the comment this caused in London, you must realize that this was an unheard-of thing for a Queen to do in a public restaurant.

Queen Lina of Spain, a first cousin of King George, is another ardent dancer who does not stand on ceremony when she dances. In fact, London gossip says that one of the reasons she comes to London every year is to get away from the stiff etiquette of the Spanish court and attend private dances given by her friends.

Dancingest of all the royal ladies, however, is Princess Arthur of Connaught, a niece of King George. Last year she had hardly reached a hotel and lost no time in dancing "The Varsity Drag," the jazz tune which had just made such a hit in London in the American musical comedy, "Good News."

NO FEDERAL PROJECTS PLANNED THIS SEASON

With the completion of the new dam at De Pere and the widening of the Fox river channel at "Drunkards Point" last fall, federal navigation activities in this vicinity will be few next season, according to A. F. Everett, government engineer. The only project which will be started this spring will be the rebuilding of a dam at Rapid Croc.

Last fall federal employees finished their work on the new mammoth dam at De Pere, above the bridge on Highway 41. Some of the equipment used while the dam was under construction is still at De Pere, but will be moved up river as soon as navigation opens.

Appleton And Fondy Hockey Teams Clash Tonight

SEXTETS STAGED GREAT GAME LAST SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Invaders Are One of the Strongest Teams in Fox River Valley

TWO hockey teams that staged a battle royal for fans down at Fond du Lac Sunday afternoon will clash on the Jones park rink tonight in a game that gives promise of being the best played here this season. The game will feature the Blue Streaks, Appleton entry, and the American Legion six of Fondy. Hockey is fast becoming a favorite sport among Appleton fans and attendance at the city team game last week and at a game Tuesday when the high school defeated Oshkosh, indicates that the new sport will be holding for a place along with basketball.

The Appleton entry this season boasts unusual talent as is indicated by the fact that the team has played and won four games after getting a late start because of inadequate facilities. New London, Neenah and Fond du Lac teams have fallen before the locals; the first squad being trimmed twice.

But to get back to Sunday's exhibition between the two teams that clash Thursday night. When the afternoon's battle opened the two teams engaged in fast, furious play for the first period of 15 minutes with neither getting an advantage.

In the second period, a Fond du Lac wing scored the puck and the Appleton net and set it sailing past Prasher, Appleton goalie. That brought Eddie Helms to the front and a few minutes later he registered a difficult goal and tied up proceedings.

The last period was a tense, bitter battle with both teams seeking the one point that probably would mean victory. Coach Joseph Shields of the high school was destined to be the hero on a play that brought the rubber down half the rink and resulted in it getting by Hiltman, Fondy goalie.

Members of the Fond du Lac team who were on their squad last week and who probably will again show tonight are: Coach Pommerville and Donald Willis, wing; James Ayres, center; Clifford Schack and Fred Campbell, defense; and Roland Halfman, goalie. Reserve players are Marian Allen, William Bush, M. Pommerville and Dr. D. J. Corcoran who coaches the team.

The Appleton lineup will show the following players, Duck Schultz, and Joe Shields, wing; Edward Helms, center; Chet Davis and Francis Rooney, defense; George Prasher, goalie; and Wally Bell, Kiley, Percy Sharpe, Clem Kitzinger and Neeland in reserve. All members of the squad will get a chance in the mixup, the first named six being a probable starting lineup.

ST. GODDARD WINS CANUCK DOG DERBY

22 Year Old Driver Is Second and Leonard Seppala Places Third

Ottawa —(AP)—Emil St. Goddard of the Pas, Man. 24-year old veteran, has won his ninth major dog derby in the past six years.

From Monday, when he turned in the record time of two hours, 37 minutes for the first 3-1 mile lap, to yesterday, when he crossed the finish line, he never was seriously threatened. That first day gave him a lead of more than nine minutes. Another victory on the second day increased it to 20 minutes and 23 seconds, and although he finished third on the final lap yesterday he had an easy victory.

St. Goddard's total elapsed time for the 100 miles was eight hours 13 minutes, 23 seconds. Second to him was his friend, 22-year-old Earl Bridges of Cranberry Portage, Man., who finished in 8:33.45 to beat out the veteran, Leonard Seppala of Nome, Alaska, by the slim margin of 23 seconds. George Chervette of Quebec was the only other musher to finish the race, coming in with an elapsed time of 9:35.27. Frank Dupuis of Berthier, Que., was disqualified for whipping his dogs in the second stage when Dr. Walter Channing of Winnipeg and Harry Wheeler, St. Jovite, Que., dropped out yesterday.

The victory brought St. Goddard a cash prize of $1,000 and the first leg on the Chateau Laurier challenge cup, which must be won three times to gain permanent possession. Bridges' prize was $400, Seppala's $100 and Chervette's $75. All the drivers received expense money.

Electric City Seconds Fall Before Appleton Team by 11 and 4 Score

Junior Holy Name basketball team took another easy victory Tuesday evening when it defeated the Kaukauna high school second team 11 and 4. The winners played a defensive game throughout, holding Kaukauna to one basket until the final three minutes of play.

The Appleton squad has been strengthened considerably with the addition of Steenis, Manier and Clem Rossmel, former high school reserves. Manier and Rossmel played good ball at their new posts while Welbes and Stover performed well at forwards. Kugler, center got one field goal and Mollen, guard, two.

JACK DEMPSEY OFF FOR JAUNT TO WEST COAST

The former world heavyweight champion, who has dropped around $50,000 on his promotional ventures, will not be present at his entertainment Friday night, in which Harry Ebbetts of New York, will meet Clyde Chastain, Dallas, Tex., middleweight. Dempsey is on his way to the Pacific coast, stopping off here and there to referee fights. He did not attend his last show, a vaudeville engagement keeping him busy elsewhere.

Badger Swim Team Shows Signs Of Great Promise

BY STANLEY E. KALISH Associated Press Sports Writer

MADISON —(AP)—The strongest swimming team that has been presented the university of Wisconsin for several years is the prospect of Coach Joe Steinauer, provided his men pass the semester examinations.

Indications of the strength of the Badgers were shown in first semester competition. The season's opener found Wisconsin victorious over Minnesota 40 to 31, for the first time since 1922. The Badgers also chalked up a 53 to 17 victory over Chicago in a meet in which Wisconsin swimmers won seven of eight first places.

Ten letter winners form the nucleus of Steinauer's team. Capt. Ed Lange, Winnetka, Ill., tops the list. Serving his second year as captain, Lange competes in the sprints and back stroke events.

Rudolph Schaffner, Milwaukee; Lawrence Davis, Highland Park, Ill.; and Ted Tanaka, Honolulu, T. H., all letter men, are other sprint swimmers.

In the back stroke, Coach Steinauer has Art Thomson, Milwaukee, all-around athlete, a letterman; Hel-

LAWRENCE FRESHMEN TO PLAY TWO GAMES

Lawrence college freshmen basketball teams, the "A" and "B" squads, if Coach Eddie Kotal can find enough players, will engage in games over the weekend. Friday evening the "A" team is going to Menominee, Mich., to do battle and Monday evening the "B" squad will meet St. Norbert freshmen over at De Pere. The "B" squad holds one victory over the St. Norbert five while the "A" squad holds a decision over Carroll college frosh.

Semester exams hit hard among students over the weekend. Friday and there will be several changes before the teams take the court both Friday and Monday nights.

WISCONSIN BEES WIN FROM STATE TEACHER QUINTET

Meanwell Scrimmages Seconds and Varsity to Give Crowd a Thrill

Oshkosh —(AP)—The University of Wisconsin's "B" team scored a 27 to 19 victory over the Oshkosh state teachers here Wednesday night in a fast and hard-fought game.

The Badgers were leading, 11 to 3, at half time and the score was exceptionally close until mid-way in the last period when the Madison five gained a wider margin.

Johnny Schroder, a former member of Oshkosh's squad, was the outstanding Oshkosh player, scoring nine of Oshkosh's 19 points.

Zoele counted nine points in the second half for Wisconsin on four beautiful long shots from a free throw. To accommodate the large crowd, Meanwell scrimmaged his regulars against his reserves for about 10 minutes.

EUROPEAN SKATERS WIN FIGURE CROWN

New York —(AP)—Europe retains its supremacy over America in the art of figure skating.

Four European stars won three titles in the world's figure skating championships at Madison Square Garden last night. Sonja Henie, pretty 17-year-old miss from Norway, easily won the women's championship for the fourth successive time and Karl Shaffer, university student from Vienna, took the men's crown with equal ease. The mixed doubles championship went to Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Brunet of France.

Miss Cecil Eustace-Smith of Toronto, Canadian champion in 1923 and 1924, finished second to Miss Henie with Miss Maribel Vinson of Boston third. In the men's competition, Roger F. Turner of Boston, United States champion for the past two years, scored America's greatest triumph, finishing second ahead of Dr. George Gausch of Switzerland. Miss Melita Brunner and Ludwig Wrede of Austria took second in the mixed pairs while Miss Beatrice Loughran and Sherwin C. Badger of New York were third.

GARY PROS SEEKING GAME WITH VALLEY "5"

The Gary Lo-X basketball team of Gary, Ind., a traveling quintet, wants a game with some team in or near Appleton for Feb. 25, according to a letter received by the sports editor of the Post-Crescent. The Indiana five is booked to play at Ontonagon, Mich., on Feb. 22 and would like to stop at Appleton on Feb. 23. There also are plans for the team to play at Appleton during the week through the state. N. Hinchman is manager of the quintet and his address is K. of C. Hotel, Gary, Ind.

FONDY LINEUP TO BE REVAMPED FOR FRIDAY'S GAME

Mullen, Center, Is Biggest Loss to Coach Fruth's Aggregation

WITH three men missing as the first semester closes and mid year graduation exercises are held, Fond du Lac high school Friday evening will present a revamped lineup as it plays its first conference basketball game of the new semester.

Among the three who have played their last game is Mullen, a long, lanky center who last year caused Appleton plenty of grief. His place will be a hard one for Coach Fruth to fill, although the down-state mentor seems to be optimistic enough. Other men lost to the squad are Humlekner and Bruett.

The gloom up around high school occasioned by the report that Kneip and Berg, forwards on the team might be missing Friday had been lifted. Berg hurdled his scholastic difficulties and Kneip's injured knee seems to be improving fast enough to let him continue his antics on the hardwood floor.

Other members of the Appleton team Friday will be the same chaps who have been performing in recent games. Lonsford will get a chance at forward, Bill Foote will jump center and co-captain Breitrick and Zimdars will perform at guards.

The Orange five plays two games this weekend. Besides Friday's game they will meet Neenah at Neenah Saturday evening.

KIMBERLY CLUB COPS FROM FONDY

Villagers Win 20 to 18 in Battle Staged on Fond du Lac Court

Kimberly—The Kimberly Club's basketball team hung up another victory Wednesday evening by taking a hard fought battle from the strong Fondy pro team 20 to 18.

The Fondy squad playing on their home floor during the entire first half. The score being 7 to 2 at the quarter and 13 to 8 at the end of the first half. The Kimberly team had considerable trouble locating the rim.

The third period was the banner period for Kimberly. Lead by Courchane the Club team turned the tables and after a series of field goals took the lead and at the end of the quarter was ahead by 14 to 13 count.

The last quarter was 19 minutes of hot head ball, each team playing their very best with the score never varying more than two points. With only a minute to play and with Kimberly leading 19 to 18 Cohen fouled Courchane who sank the free try and the game ended 20 to 18.

Chicago —(AP)—With the Chicago Black Hawks on home ice again tonight against the Montreal Maroons, a national hockey league attendance record appeared in the offing.

Just before they left for their long road trip, the Hawks and Boston played before nearly 15,000 cash patrons, but advance sales indicate the 16,000 mark may be reached in the stadium tonight.

ILLINOIS IN 3RD PLACE AFTER WIN OVER CHICAGO "5"

Victory Over Minnesota Saturday Will Send Them into Second Place

CHICAGO—(AP)—The University of Illinois today was resting alone in third place with excellent prospects of finishing the week in a tie for second position in the Western conference basketball race. The Illini moved out of a tie for third place with Michigan last night by administering Chicago its fifth straight defeat of the championship season, 23 to 25. Reorganized during the last week because of the ineligibility of Horace May, its tall center, Illinois played ragedly in defeating Chicago, but displayed plenty of staying power. The Maroons made a battle of it down to the closing minutes but failed to stand the pace.

Illinois will tackle Minnesota at Minneapolis in one of the trio of conference battles Saturday night. With Wisconsin idle, a victory would give Illinois a share of second position with the Badgers at four triumphs and one defeat.

Purdue will meet Chicago at Chicago, Indiana will invade Ohio State in the other Saturday game. Northwestern is scheduled to Marquette at Evanston tonight.

The Illinois-Chicago summary: Chicago (25) G F P 12; Illinois (23) G F P 11. Chicago: Changnon, F. 0 2 3; Stephenson, F. 4 0 0; Fraider, F. 0 1 0; Boesel, C. 2 1 1; Fish, G. 3 1 3; Ashley, G. 2 2 2. Totals 25 12 12.

National League Fans Wonder About Hartnett

BY FRANCIS J. POWERS Copyright, 1936.

CHICAGO—National league baseball fans will be listening eagerly for first reports on the throwing arm of Mr. Leo (Gabbler) Hartnett, star maskman of the Chicago Cubs.

If early work-outs in the warm sun which William Wrigley supplies especially on his Santa Catalina Island, show Hartnett casting the ball about as he did in 1923 and preceding years, all will be well with the Brains. But if the bustling backstop finds creaks and rumbles in his whip, then Joseph McCarthy may have his troubles.

Hartnett, the gentleman most interested in the Hartnett throwing arm, believes he has completely recovered from the mysterious muscle or nerve ailment of last year that made him happy as a hungry bum-blee and twice as useless to the Cubs. He underwent a course of treatments earlier in the winter and for several weeks has been throwing the ball around a gymnasium in a carefree manner. Gabby has thrown as high as 200 balls a day and has yet to feel a twinge of pain in the suspected arm.

Ray Schalk, the old White Sox catcher, who now is associated with the Cubs and rather suspected of treason by the gents who used to root for him on the South Side, thinks Hartnett's arm is almost as good as new. Ray has been playing catch with him and is optimistic over his comeback. Pat Malone, one of the Cub pitchers, also played catch with Hartnett during the early stages of his convalescence, but resigned last week when the catcher began throwing them entirely too hard to handle in a fielder's glove.

No one seems to know exactly what caused Gabby's arm trouble last year—such things usually being more of a mystery than the contents of modern Scotch. Art Nehf, the retired Cub pitcher, has his idea about the matter and it is as good as any. Nehf believes that Hartnett had sprung a muscle on a hard snap throw to third base during one of the first days of the 1929 spring training. Such things have happened and if Gabby has made a complete recovery he is more fortunate than most lads who jam their throwing apparatus.

William Veech, president of the Cubs, returned recently from California, was greatly cheered by the news of Hartnett's apparent recovery. With his back the Cubs will be a much better club than in 1929 when they had their difficulties with catchers. Hartnett not only is a good, smart, hustling catcher but also a capable hitter and about the nearest approach the National league has to Mickey Cochrane, of the Athletics.

But the story of Hartnett cannot be finished until the conclusion of spring training. Joe McCarthy will force the ambitious player to go slow in his work and perhaps he will not be cutting loose until shortly before the opening of the season. Psychology favors his recovery. Gabby firmly believes that he is able to throw as well as ever, and therein he differs from many sore armed athletes who pamper themselves.

KIMBERLY BOYS SEEK BASKETBALL GAMES

Kimberly—The boy's basketball team of the parochial school, being coached by athletic director, "Dud" Courchane, desires games with grade school teams in the near vicinity.

The grade school boys went down to Little Chute last week and defeated the St. John's grades by a one sided score 20 to 3. The Kimberly team showed plenty of good team work and the score proves that they are not so bad at eyeing the hoop.

Any team desiring games please call or write "Dud" Courchane at the Kimberly Clubhouse.

The Kimberly team is composed of the following members: Norbert Gossens, Vincent Williams, Joe Manning, Billy Sarrasin, Elmer Vander Velden, Clayborne Vander Velden, Arthur Hopkins.

LOYOLA FORWARD IS DECLARED INELIGIBLE

Chicago—(AP)—The Loyola university basketball squad will leave Friday for its six-game eastern invasion, without Tommy Flynn, sensational sophomore forward. Flynn yesterday was declared scholastically ineligible and will be lost for the remainder of the season.

Four of the five basketball regulars at Alabama Polytechnic Institute (Auburn) are sophomores.

WEST COAST GETS TWO BILLIARD TOURNEYS

Robert Fouts of Los Angeles, winner of the southwest 1922 title, will meet the winner of the northwest tournament for the right to represent the coast in the national tournament at St. Louis.

This event will be held Feb. 22-23, inclusive. The three-cushion tournament will be held Feb. 24-25, inclusive, with Joe Hall of San Francisco, winner of the southwestern event, meeting the winner of the northwest section tournament.

CINCINNATI BUYS LEA DUROCHER

Red and Brooklyn Swap Pitchers Doug McWeeny and Adolpho Luque

New York—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds have a new addition to their brilliant infield in Leo Durocher, one of the New York Yankees.

The Reds acquired the flashy young shortstop yesterday for an unnamed player and an unannounced sum of money. It is expected that the Yankees will use the Cincinnati player to pay an obligation the club owes in the Pacific coast league.

But the question arises as to how it happened that the other American league clubs happened to waive on Durocher and just what use Cincinnati expects to make of him. Leo is a poor hitter, batting only .215 last season, but he is a brilliant fielder and an expert talker. To use him, Cincinnati probably will have to break up an already fine fielding combination of Phil and Fritz, who made a record of 124 double plays while playing shortstop and second base for the Reds in 1923.

Cincinnati completed another deal yesterday which brought Doug McWeeny there from Brooklyn in exchange for Adolpho Luque. Neither of these right handed pitchers was particularly effective last season, but the managers of the two teams evidently believe they will be useful for the 1930 season. Luque, nearly 40 years old, is a crafty and resourceful pitcher. McWeeny, who has a world of speed but has shown little control, has done his most effective pitching in Cincinnati.

In 37 years of football Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn has won 145 games, lost 55 and tied 16.

Get Ample Reward For Feeding Winter Birds

New London—Those residents who find a moment or two a day during the winter season to provide sheltered places for birds are this winter being more than amply repaid for their small amount of work. Few profess to understand the idiosyncracies of birds, therefore it is difficult to understand why this season more than usual varieties of birds have chosen this city in which to winter, instead of following the regular migration to less trying climates. ## County Farmer Firm Supporter Of Sweet Clover

Considers It Best Pasture for His Herd of Dairy Cattle

BY W. F. WINSEY

Black Creek—Alfred Wirth, route 4, has been specializing in the raising of sweet clover for pasture and alfalfa for hay for a number of years. He is probably the first farmer in his vicinity to experiment with sweet clover, and on account of its superiority over all other pastures in feed and milk production is one of its strongest admirers and supporters.

Occasionally Mr. Wirth has made hay of a field of sweet clover and carried it into the barn so green that the neighbors told him the hay would spoil but he never had any trouble in that line. When he removes two knives from his silage cutter and cuts up sweet clover hay, his cattle eat every snitch of it, and turn it into large quantities of milk.

Occasionally Mr. Wirth in the past has had trouble in pulling a stand of alfalfa through the winter but since he changed to Grimm's alfalfa seed, he has had no further trouble. This winter he is watching his seven acre field of alfalfa in which the plants stood knee high last fall and the stand was excellent.

Through the field slopes, he says, he has seen patches of ice in some parts of the field and he fears that the ice may smother patches of the alfalfa.

In raising sweet clover for pasture, Mr. Wirth says that some farmers complain that the sweet clover lowers above the oats or barley used as a nurse crop at harvesting time. He says that a heavy growth of sweet clover is no disadvantage as it never spoils in the mow, and is a great advantage on account of the large proportion of excellent feed it puts in the stack.

Mr. Wirth considers sweet clover the best pasture, and alfalfa the best hay he has ever tried out for his animals.

Of Interest To Farmers

Good Hay Crop Helps Farmer Decrease Costs

A good hay crop is the first essential of every dairy farmer in reducing his production costs, says Geo. M. Briggs, Wisconsin College of Agriculture. A dry July or August may not be favorable to young seedlings, but sometimes what seemed to be a bad field of alfalfa or clover in the spring is a good disappointment in the fall.

Unless something is done to save cases of this kind, farmers may have well filled barns in the fall.

Every good farmer knows the value of good legume hay. He knows that he gets more tons of hay of high protein feeds from good legume hay than from any other hay. He knows that when he has well cured, choice legume hay, his feed ration can consist of more home grown grains.

A good substitute for clover hay is a mixture of peas and oats with alfalfa and sweet clover. The peas and sweet clover are cut early. The peas substitute legume protein hay to take the place of alfalfa, however, is the soybean plant. As these substitute hays will yield from two to four tons of hay per acre, it is not especially hard to determine the acreage needed to grow legume in 1936.

No better crop for hays or a pasture can be found than clover or alfalfa. Why not plan on these crops early this spring? One way a farmer can get a good production of hay is to let his family handle the harvesting for him. The planning of hay is the last cultivation of corn or planting soybeans in corn for hogging or sheeping off would be a good practice.

Probably no crop of grain is more profitable than corn for silage or for hays. No crop responds better to good fertilization. Corn adapted to the climate and maturing when it should has a high per cent of leaves and a large amount of water.

APPRECIATE BARLEY MORE

Barley and more the barley crop is being appreciated over an oat crop, especially the smooth headed barley. Velds of barley are unusually much greater than oats, especially on heavy soils where barley grows best.

How about planning a little spring wheat in 1936? Spring wheat is the past has been a little dangerous to recommend due to its being taken by rust but the new spring wheat, called Progress, about nineteen fields out of twenty are rust free, yielding from fifteen to forty bushels to the acre. Wheat and oats make a combination hard to beat in home grown feeds. It lessens the amount of

DEBATERS WILL OPEN SCHEDULE THIS WEEK

Kaukauna—Debaters on the negative team of the high school will open their schedule Thursday evening at Algoma, meeting the latter's affirmative team on the question of whether the present system of installment buying is socially and economically desirable. The affirmative team will open the season at 8:15 Friday evening in the east study room of the high school against Sturgeon Bay. Admission will be charged.

FARMERS TURNING TO SOIL SURVEYS

Hope to Find Out Why They Have Difficulty Raising Some Crops

BY W. F. WINSEY

One of the first farmers of Kaukauna to have a complete survey of his farm made by the Department of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture is Harold W. Briggs and Gilbert Wierling.

They were made in June and July of 1935, and the results are being put to practical service in the spring.

Initially in making a soil survey, the farmer is told to observe the soil in the field, and to note the various parts of the farm having a survey made. Beside these things, he is told to get more and more information without taking the time to the expense of time and money. The soil analysis is made, and the results are sent to the farmer. The farmer is told to use an application of lime to his fields, and to use a fertilizer of phosphate and potash.

Mr. Briggs and Mr. Wierling are both farmers and are both interested in the results of the survey. They are both interested in the results of the survey.

Old doctor's idea still helping Elderly People conquer constipation

DR. CALDWELL made a startling discovery shortly after he graduated from medical school back in 1875. He found great numbers—especially older men and women—suffering from constipation, who were taking harsh laxatives and purgatives. So he concluded that many things people take for constipation do more harm than good, and physicians of today are of the same opinion.

This thought made Dr. Caldwell conduct a search, and out of it came the prescription which made him famous. Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out-of-sorts, weak or feverish; with a coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. Its action was so thorough even in the most obstinate cases, and yet so gentle with women and children.

The product you get from your drug store today, when you ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is put up exactly in accordance with this prescription. It has become the world's most popular laxative. It is a pleasant tasting mixture of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients; it is a real corrective for constipation for men, women and children.

MAN WANTED FOR TRIAL BELIEVED TO BE DEAD

Cleveland — (AP)— Lee Leonard of Green Bay, Wis., under federal indictment on charges of kidnaping, was ordered by a grand jury at Cleveland, Ohio, to be held for trial.

Leonard has not been seen since Jan. 7 when the man known as "Ghost," charged Edward Galt, with the murder of a woman, was shot.

The ghost never made a post and no trace of her has been discovered.

ON TOP where it belongs

Put your hand over a radiator—and you'll know what refrigerator to buy!

Feel that current of warm air heading straight for the ceiling? Warm air has a habit of floating up—an unbreakable habit. And that includes the warm air the mechanism draws out of your refrigerator to make it cool inside.

How easy to see that the efficient refrigerator mechanism must always be on top, so that all the warm air released by it will be set free above the cabinet that must be kept cool!

You can always tell a General Electric Refrigerator. The mechanism is on top where it belongs. And that mechanism keeps the temperature of your refrigerator where it belongs. Always below 50 degrees.

And it keeps your electric current bill where it belongs. Unbelievably low. And it keeps the maintenance cost where it belongs. For three years no owner has paid one cent for service!

Why not put a nice, glistening white, all-steel General Electric Refrigerator where it belongs? Phone us, or better yet, drop around.

Join us in the General Electric Hour, broadcast every Saturday at 9 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, over a Nation-wide N.B.C. network.

FAMOUS SOPRANO BOOKED TO APPEAR IN ARTIST SERIES

Dusolina Giannini Will Sing
Here Tuesday Evening, Feb. 18

La Giannini, sensational dramatic soprano, who achieved national fame overnight and international fame in two seasons, has been booked for an appearance in Applleton on Tuesday evening, Feb. 18, by the management of the Community Artist Series. Dusolina Giannini is unquestionably one of the greatest solo artists ever to appear in this city—more than that, she was born in Philadelphia and is a Sembrich pupil, she is thoroughly American in environment and training.

Critics almost always disagree on the merits of a new artist, and often quibble over an established one. However, Giannini's interpretation is so sincere and original, her natural talent so outstanding, and her musical training so sound, that the professional hecklers are forced into a common search for superlatives.

Two critics, six thousand miles apart, used almost the same words in their initial reviews of Giannini's performance: the critic for the Minneapolis Journal wrote, "Here is a voice once heard, never to be forgotten," while the critic for the Berliner National Zeitung said essentially the same thing 15 months later when he reviewed her Berlin review, "I heard her only once, but the impression will remain with me to the end of my days."

Giannini is the newest sensation of the musical world, and those who hear her Applleton concert may, in later years, cherish the memory of Giannini's voice, as the older generation now cherishes the memory of Patti, Lind, Eames, Melba, and Sembrich.

The management of the Community Artist Series has already presented two completely successful group attractions to the Applleton audience—the Lyric Male Chorus of Milwaukee under the direction of Alfred Miles Bergen opened the series Nov. 12, followed on Dec. 6, with a concert by the Musical Art Quartet featuring Sascha Jacobsen and two numbers, besides Giannini, yet remain. Paul Kochanski, violinist will appear here March 6, and with great difficulty the management has succeeded in booking Vladimir Horowitz, the sensational Russian pianist, for an appearance April 5.

Search for Bodies of Two Aviators Often Delayed by Arctic Storms

Nome, Alaska—(AP)—Despite frequent interruptions by severe Arctic storms, search for the bodies of the American aviators, Carl Ben Eielson and Earl G. Ford, today was going forward in the icy Siberian lagoon 30 miles southeast of North Cape, where the wreckage of their plane was found Jan. 25.

Edw. Joe Crosson, who with Pilot Harold Gillingham, of the plane, died last night from the icebound fur trading ship Nanuk, at North Cape, that flights would be made to the wreck every other day to report on the progress of the crews clearing away ice and snow around the plane in the search for the bodies. Eielson and Ford were lost while flying to the Nanuk last Nov. 2.

Crosson and Gillingham flew to the lagoon Tuesday with supplies for the men working at the wreck. The Russian pilot Slipenkov, in command of the Soviet forces engaged in the search, is now at the scene of the wreck, having flown there with three from the Soviet ship Stavorop, which is locked in the ice near the Nanuk.

Flying conditions were unfavorable yesterday at North Cape and the projected flight of Captain Pat Reid, Canadian aviator, to Teller, Alaska, with three passengers of the Nanuk, was postponed. Miss Marion Swann, Seattle high school girl; Olaf Swenson, her father and head of the company which owns the Nanuk, and Captain Milozorov of the Stavorop had intended to make the flight. They have been marooned on their ship at North Cape for several months.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any drugist. Pour this into a pint bottle, then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the germs, eases the inflamed membrane, soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease. Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not use a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Appears Here Soon

Dusolina Giannini, dramatic soprano, will sing in the Community Artist Series Tuesday evening, Feb. 18. Announcement of her booking was made by the Series management this week. Her recent rise to fame was sensational.

PREFERRED STOCK STATUS SHOWN BY MONEY STRUCTURE

More Valuable if No Bonds or Funded Indebtedness Precede It

New York—The capital structure of a corporation has an important bearing on the investment status of the preferred stock. If there are no bonds, no funded indebtedness and no charges of any kind ahead of the preferred that issue obviously is more valuable than if it is preceded by senior securities. This question has to be looked into before the significance of the number of times the preferred dividend is earned can be understood.

When there are heavy prior charges a preferred dividend may be covered many times and yet not be as safe as the dividend on another preferred stock covered that number of times and with no prior charges in the first case a decrease in net income is more serious because the bond interest remains the same and must be cared for before anything is set aside for the preferred dividend. With such stocks the best measure is the number of times interest and preferred dividends are earned taken together.

Of course if there are no bonds

FOUR RAILROADS WARNED TO CHANGE
PLANS FOR MERGER

Proposals Not in Accord With Interstate Commerce Commission

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1936, By Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York (CPA)—The first follow-up test the interstate commerce commission has made of its plan of railroad consolidation published six weeks ago has taken the form of a statement to the executives of four eastern trunk line systems that their unification plans are not in accord with the commission's ideas and that it would be advisable that these plans be either withdrawn or dismissed.

The roads so advised are the Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Walash, and Delaware & Hudson. The only other important application for merger before the commission prior to the release of the general consolidations plan were those of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific, which were in effect approved by the commission in allocating these systems to one group on the release by them of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, and that of the Missouri Pacific which some months ago was recommended by the examiner for the commission.

HAD OTHER PLANS
All of the four eastern roads cited in the latest announcement by the commission had set up elaborate plans for combining roads in their territory into major systems. Their views as to what they should acquire in order to round out these systems are not in conformity with those of the railroad regulating body. The nearest approach of any is that of the Walash, whose original plan is not much affected and which the commission expended materially by giving to this system the Norfolk & Western and the Seaboard Air line. Probably the most significant feature of the recommendation just made by the commission is in the attitude taken toward the proposed Delaware & Hudson group, for which this body has shown less sympathy than for almost any other.

The Lores plan advocated allocation to the Delaware & Hudson of all the New England lines as well as coal carriers such as the Lehigh & Hudson, Lehigh & New England and New York, Ontario & Western, whose traffic moves mainly into New England territory. The Delaware & Hudson group also asked for the Buffalo & Pittsburgh, Buffalo & Susquehanna and the Reading, which the commission has given in its plan to the Baltimore & Ohio. It further demanded the Virginian, which is to go to the New York Central; the Western Maryland, which is to be attached to the Wabash, and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, which for some strange reason is found in the L. C. C. class among the Nickel Plate properties, although it is a competitor of the Erie.

The Delaware & Hudson, which was to be the central link in the Lores group, was placed with the Boston & Maine and the Bangor & Aroostook in what is known as the Boston & Maine system.

ROAD WANTED MORE
In the original plan Baltimore & Ohio made application to acquire the Western Maryland, Walash, Ann Arbor, Lehigh & Hudson and the lines of the Pittsburgh & West Virginia east of the Ohio river. The commission's plan eliminates all these roads from Baltimore & Ohio control, but preserves for the system what it most needs and has long fought for, namely the Reading-Jersey Central combination, the Buffalo Rochester & Pittsburgh and the Buffalo & Susquehanna.

The application of the Chesapeake & Ohio originally made included the Nickel Plate, Pere Marquette, Erie and Hoosier Valley which are now closely knit into this system and which the commission approves in its plan. But it also asked for the Lackawanna, Wheeling & Lake Erie, Virginian and Chicago & Eastern Illinois and for joint control with the Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio and New York Central of various "bridge and terminal lines" into the New England and Pittsburgh districts.

Like the Baltimore & Ohio, the Van Sweringen system is quite well accommodated in the commission's plan without the minor additions to the system originally requested. It is expected that in view of the liberal treatment which the interstate commerce commission gave the Wabash, Baltimore & Ohio and Chesapeake & Ohio in its general consolidation program, the recommendation that these systems dismiss the applications now before the commission with reference to the original set-up will be forthcoming. Wall Street was interested today as to the attitude of Mr. Lores toward the dismemberment of his pet scheme and whether in view of the commission's attitude he will make a further fight in behalf of it.

PAYDAY ARRIVES

Statisticians Find City and County Sinking Deeper
"Into the Red"

Chicago—(AP)—While local governments waited today for money with nothing more definite than an abiding hope, statisticians computed how badly the governments were "in the red."

The statisticians found that if the city and county governments realize their expectations of selling $123,940,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants, they will increase the public floating debt to $103,940,000, or $253,842,000 more than the estimated 1928 tax collections can pay.

Chicago school teachers had another payless payday today. Yesterday saw the third payday for county employees pass without anything being done about it.

Harry Newby, chairman of the county board's finance committee, said: "We've got to have action soon or we will be compelled to issue warrants to the employees instead of cash. Some of them are in terrible shape."

The Lincoln Park board announced that $250,000 had been cut from the 1929 payroll by the elimination of 100 jobs without affecting the efficiency of park operation. The action was taken not because any shortage of funds, the board explained, but as a measure of economy.

H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the school board, has gone to New York where he hopes to obtain money for payment of past due salaries and bills. Mayor William Hale Thompson has remained silent as to whether he will accept the offer of the Strawn citizens' relief committee to aid the city, which is behind in its pay to all employees.

Asked last night if he would cooperate with the Strawn committee, Mayor Thompson said: "We are still working on a way to pay the employees."

"You are willing, aren't you, to do anything to get the employees their pay?" he was asked.

"I did not say that," the mayor replied. "That is too general a statement."

PER CAPITA COST OF GOVERNMENT IN STATE SHOWS DROP

Is 40 Cents Less in 1928 as Compared With 1927, Reports Show

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Wash. Corrs.

Washington—The per capita cost of Wisconsin's state government dropped 40 cents in 1928 as compared with 1927, but was $4.27 more in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1928, than in 1927.

Statistics on the cost of the Badger state government made public by the Bureau of the Census today (Friday) show that in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1928, the payments for operation and maintenance of the general departments of Wisconsin amounted to $2,574,651, including $4,214,335 apportioned for education to the minor civil divisions of the state.

On an estimated population of 2,377,000, this means a cost of $1.08 per person in the state as compared with a cost of $1.12 for each person in the previous year and $0.68 in 1926.

The interest on the state debt in 1928 amounted to $1,156,495, and outlays for permanent improvements amounted to $1,551,116, bringing the total expenditures of the state to $4,607,256. Of this amount, $87,540 represents payments by a state department or enterprise to another on account of services.

Of these governmental costs, $17,314,602 was for highways, $4,821,626 for maintenance and $15,423,426 for construction.

Wisconsin took in during the year $45,791,517, or $19.29 per capita. This was $15,400,377 more than the total payments of the year, exclusive of payments for permanent improvements, but $29,769 less than the total payments including those for permanent improvements. Of this amount, $57,540 represents receipts of one department from another on account of services.

Property and special taxes represented 31.9 per cent of the total revenue for 1928, as against 33.8 per cent for 1927, and 62.5 per cent for 1925.

TAXES ARE LOWER

The amount of property and special taxes collected in 1928 was 13.8 per cent lower than in 1927, but the 1927 collections were 59.2 per cent greater than in 1925.

The per capita property and special taxes were $4.93 in 1928 as against $5.21 in 1927, and $4.49 in 1925.

Decrease in property and special taxes is due, the Census bureau says, to a reduction in the amount of state income taxes paid. Because of a change in the date of collection the greater portion of such taxes for 1928 were not received until after the close of the state's fiscal year.

Earnings of general departments or compensation for services rendered by state officials represented 19.4 per cent of the total revenue for 1928, as compared with 9.6 per cent for 1927, and 14.1 per cent for 1925.

Business and non-business licenses constituted 44 per cent of the total revenue in 1928, as against 39.5 per cent in 1927 and 18.1 per cent for 1925.

Receipts from business licenses consist mainly of taxes exacted from insurance and other incorporated companies and of sales tax on gasoline, which amounted to $6,231,629 in 1928, an increase of 14.7 per cent

TELL HER TO ENTER SOME RURAL SCHOOL AND STUDY MUSIC

A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, has received and offer to become a teacher of music by correspondence.

A woman from Albany, Oregon, who read an article written by Mr. Meating for Hoad's Dairyman on Oregan's rural school music program, wrote to Mr. Meating as follows:

"I was just wondering if you would please be so kind and send me a copy of how to read the scale, to read notes, how to find the key in which a song is written and how to transpose that song from one key to another. I would gladly pay the cost of sending."

The gasoline tax receipts for 1927

Receipts from non-business licenses are chiefly taxes on motor vehicles and amounts paid for hunting and fishing privileges.

The total state debt outstanding on June 30, 1928, was $1,563,740. This means a cost of 63 cents per capita in 1928 as against 77 cents per capita in 1927 and 10 cents per capita in 1925.

The assessed valuation of property in Wisconsin subject to ad valorem taxation was $9,223,729,739. The amount of state taxes levied was $1,330,749. The per capita levy was $0.57 as against $1.12 in 1927 and $4.27 in 1925.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

SUB-STATIONS OF APPLETON LIBRARY MISSED IN COUNTY

Many Supervisors Consider Discontinuance as Distinct Loss

Although rural school libraries supply a certain amount of reading material for residents of small communities in Outagamie-co, the discontinuance of the Appleton public library sub-stations is considered a keen loss by many county supervisors, especially those in the towns where county stations once existed.

Where there is a small public library, the necessity for books from the Appleton library is not so great, but in communities where the only book service is that from the Traveling Library association at Mason, the withdrawal of the Appleton books will put a definite restriction on the reading resources of those people who are not in a position to call at the local library.

Some supervisors are of the opinion that the county board should appropriate more than $500 annually for county book service, and others feel that if the present appropriation will serve county patrons who visit the library, the sub-stations could well be discontinued.

Joseph T. Doerflinger, supervisor of Kimberly village, where a book station has been operated for a number of years, states that the volumes from the Appleton library supplemented very successfully the books in their own small library, and that the withdrawal of them will be felt by the reading public.

Kimberly because of its own library has become reconciled to the loss of the sub-station, said Mr. Doerflinger, but in his opinion if those units in the county that cannot afford a library could get book service in this way, it would be wise for the county board to appropriate a sufficient amount of money to finance many of these book stations.

"It seems to be the cheapest way of providing reading for a great many people," Mr. Doerflinger declared. BELIEVES IN BOOKS

Although a deep believer in economy, F. O. Smith, Hortonville supervisor, feels that libraries have a great educational value, and that any money spent on education is well spent.

"As the economic situation of the county improves," he said, "I should think it would be advisable to increase the county appropriation for the extension of the county book service."

Hortonville readers are adequately supplied with books through their own public library, to which the town donates $150 each year, and the school library, but nevertheless it is a stock of books from the Appleton library would provide additional kinds of reading material. Mr. Smith would favor such a station for Hortonville.

The steady improvement and increases in books in the library at Shiocion, where a county station existed several years ago, makes Shiocion independent of assistance from the Appleton library, according to Mrs. F. O. Town.

The need for books at Black Creek is so great that Mrs. Abe Burdick, who takes care of the village library and the Appleton sub-station, plans to obtain and return boxes of books from the Appleton library through the kindness of Black Creek citizens who will transport them back and forth. The books-out of the Appleton library have been particularly appreciated by Black Creek people, because the selection, they feel, is better than that of the traveling library association. Mrs. Burdick hopes that the county board will appropriate enough money so the sub-station can be re-established, for she feels that the library facilities of Black Creek—350 books a week are circulated out of the Black Creek library.

OPPOSES INCREASE
John Knapstein, Greenville supervisor, is of the opinion that the $500 appropriation of the board is enough to meet the expense of handling county borrowers who come to the library for their books, and if county stations cause too much expense it is better to discontinue them and use the money to adequately take care of the county patrons of the library. The only books available at Greenville now are those sent to the school by the state.

At Dale, where the sub-station is three years old, the withdrawal of the books will be a great loss, according to H. M. Rouse, who was in charge of the circulation of the books. This small library had from 75 to 100 borrowers, and the 25 books sent by the local library had "gone the rounds" months before the next semi-annual allotment of books arrived. Mr. Rouse favored the appropriation of more money by the county board for this service.

FOUR OUTSTANDING BOOKS ARE PLACED ON LIBRARY SHELVES

"Fine Art of Reading" by Rogers Included in New List

Four outstanding books recently put on the Appleton library shelves are "On the Up and Up" by Bruce Barton; "Stamps" by Kent B. Stiles; "Lion" by Martin Johnson; and "The Fine Art of Reading" by Robert L. Rogers.

"On the Up and Up" by the author of the "Man Nobody Knows," "The Book Nobody Knows" and "What Can a Man Believe," will delight Barton's audience with its wit and sound idealism. Bruce Barton always has something to say worth saying, and in each of his short chapters he has embodied a conclusion about personal or business life which comes from his own experience or observation. Each is as direct as an arrow and as sharp as the arrow's point.

"Stamps," an outline of philately, will interest particularly the members of the Appleton Philatelic society, and in addition every person who has, who had, and who may have the stamp collecting bug. The book is a thorough study of the subject, and the adult collector will find it an invaluable reference book. There are certain features that will be particularly valuable at this time—the air mails, the commemoratives, the description of stamps associated with religion, sports, literature, history, the World War, and a glossary of terms containing several thousand definitions and terms.

"Lion," African adventures with the king of beasts, is a thrilling account of Martin Johnson's battles and narrow escapes in the wilds of Burmah, India, Java and Africa. Johnson says, "I did not know what adventure was until I began to investigate lions."

In his chatty, brilliant manner Prof. Rogers associate professor of English at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, writes his audience face to face. He tells what to read, how to read it, and how to get the marrow out of what you are reading. It is full of witty phrases and flashes of clever epigrams. The book is written in the same splendid, fearless and unconventional style that has made Prof. Rogers famous, and he has tried to do for literature what Abbe Dimmet has done for psychology.

281 NEW BOOKS ARE ADDED TO LIBRARY

The addition of 289 new borrowers and 281 new volumes during January was reported at the monthly meeting of the library board Tuesday afternoon. A total of 15,662 volumes were circulated during the month.

Of the 31,907 books now in the library 24,012 are adult volumes and 7,895 for children. The registrations at the library, aggregating 10,198 at the end of January, include 7,264 adults, 2,934 children, 689 county borrowers and 45 living outside the county.

Circulation figures were 11,707 fiction books, 3,589 nonfiction, 292 unbound periodicals, 173 foreign books, 50 pictures and 61 clippings. Books sent out of the adult department numbered 11,291 and those out of the children's room, 3,371. Forty-nine books were received as gifts.

Lumber Company Runs Cars On Gas Made From Wood

San Francisco—(AP)—Running automobiles on gas generated from wood is giving a California lumber company what is equivalent to free motor fuel for some of its trucks.

It is being tried out by other industrial organizations following demonstrations before United States army officers of the invention of two brothers of Alsace, France. The gas generation attachment, applicable to all motors that are operated by the ignition of vaporized gasoline, is termed a "Gasogen." It is a product of the war's aftermath in a part of Europe so impoverished that the cost of gasoline had become burdensome.

Although not expectant that wood or "solid" fuel will supplant gasoline as an automotive power, to any considerable extent, Col. Jean P. Imbert, one of the co-inventors, who has brought the device to America for production in this state, believes that it will meet an economic need in fields where fuel bills for rough trucking are a considerable item.

At the San Francisco Presidio, the attachment applied to a Liberty motor hauled 35 tons.

Operated on wood costing up to $5 per cord, compared to use of gasoline at 20 cents a gallon, the latter cost of 1 cent per ton mile was found to be cut to 1-4 cent per ton mile.

In industrial services such as lumbering or cane sugar, where semi-waste products can be had for burning, the savings in fuel costs are enough to pay the wages of truck drivers, Colonel Imbert declares.

The burner, five feet tall and two square, is attached at the side of the truck. The fire is started with charcoal and fanned by a blower which must be revolved by hand three to five minutes to establish the generation and circulation of the gas, after which the process is automatic.

To offset this disadvantage, carburetors and gasoline tanks have been preserved on the machines at the Presidio. The start is made on gasoline and the switch in power is made after the engine has run a few minutes.

In the burner, all of the gases derived from the destructive distillation of wood are generated but the non-condensable gases are burned. The others pass through four clarifiers and filters, running crosswise of the machine under the chassis, and the impurities are removed and washed out in water condensed from the steam. From the clarifiers the gases go to the engine and are ignited by spark in the same manner as gasoline.

The weight of the fuel is two and a half to three times that of gasoline. Refueling is necessary every five hours. The attachment is applicable to airplane engines but the added weight would materially reduce the cruising radius of a plane.

For aeronautics uses the only advantage, Colonel Imbert says, would be the reduction of fire hazard in an imperfect landing and the providing of a source of power in remote sections of the world, such as the Arctic regions, where gasoline must be transported long distances.

DOG RUINS TRAFFIC
Baltimore—A police dog, standing on a corner and barking continuously, held up traffic on one of the city's main streets here for quite a while. The signal light at the crossing was sound-controlled and it so happened that the dog's bark acted on the mechanism of the light. His continuous bark kept the "go" light lit in one direction. Police drove the dog away with stones.

HOPE ABANDONED THEN KONJOLA RESTORED HEALTH

Lady Is Speedily Relieved of Triple Ailment When New Medicine Goes to Work

MRS. ANNA CLARK

"Konjola completely removed all traces of my ailments from which I had suffered for three years even after everything else I had tried failed utterly," said Mrs. Anna Clark, 1509 Prairie street, Sioux City. Even the lightest foods did not agree with me but lay in my stomach and fermented. Gas formed and terrible pains followed. Constipation was always present and my kidneys were in a very weakened condition. My back was sore, and my feet and ankles were swollen.

"At last, I put Konjola to the test. Why, I obtained wonderful relief from the very first bottle and daily the improvement was more noticeable. Within a short time I was again enjoying good health. Every trace of indigestion is gone, and my bowels and kidneys have been regulated and stimulated. A medicine of Konjola's merit is surely worthy of my sincere recommendation."

Konjola is sold in Appleton at Schlitz Bros. Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

CHEMICAL MAKERS SELL DYES LOWER IN FOREIGN LANDS

Make Paper, Ink Industries Suffer for Du Ponts, La-Follette Charges

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington—The paper, ink, leather, cotton, woolen and silk industries have been made to suffer for the benefit of the Du Ponts and other big chemical manufacturers. Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr. of Wisconsin declared in the second of his technical speeches on the chemical tariff.

In this instance, the Wisconsin senator was opposing American valuation of imported chemicals for tariff purposes, which, he said, would amount to an embargo.

American chemical manufacturers, he said, are selling dyes and other chemicals in foreign countries at prices lower than those they make American manufacturers of textiles, paper, leather, and ink pay for the same products.

Furthermore, these products being sold by American manufacturers abroad at prices lower than the prices to American consumers are products used greatly by the American workingman. Senator La Follette said.

"The domestic dyestuff manufacturers," Senator La Follette continued, "are not only exporting one-third by poundage of their production to foreign countries, but are selling these dyes in foreign countries cheaper than they are selling to some consumers in the United States, according to my information."

They are using the embargo protection of American valuation to charge high prices to domestic consumers so that they can sell for export at lower prices.

CITY COAL-TAR DYES
"I wish to refer to the list of coal-tar dyes, given to the finance committee during the hearings on the chemical schedule in testimony by a witness who appeared before that committee, containing 12 dyes the domestic dyestuff manufacturers are selling in Canada cheaper than they are selling to consumers in the United States."

"On this list is indigo, the color universally used for dyeing the workman's overalls and denims. This testimony shows that while the domestic manufacturers were selling indigo to the proximity mills in North Carolina, to the Stoneville cotton manufacturing company in Mississippi, and other large users of indigo at 15 cents a pound, they were selling indigo delivered in Canada at 19 1/8 cents per pound, practically one-third less."

"While they were selling sulphur black, which is extensively used for dyeing cotton goods used by the workman, to the textile manufacturers in this country at 13 1/4 cents a pound, they were selling this same dye delivered in Canada at 11 1/2 cents per pound."

"On this list I find another color, alizarin brilliant green, one of the best and fastest wool colors, which they are selling in the United States to woolen manufacturers at $2.75 per pound, while they are delivering the same color to Canada at 95 cents a pound. This is practically one-third the price at which they are selling to woolen manufacturers in this country."

"This dumping of coal-tar dyes used for woolen goods in foreign countries may explain in part why the exports of woolen manufacturers from the United States in 1927 were less than one-half of what they were in 1914."

CHARGE TOO MUCH HERE

Senator La Follette concluded that either the American dye manufacturers must be selling their products at a profit abroad under these conditions, and thus charging American consumers more than they should, or that their selling their exports at a loss with the American profits making up for the loss, and that in this case "American consumers are being charged unconscionably high prices for the dyes which they must purchase in order to carry on their business."

"I am reliably informed," he continued, "by a domestic manufacturer of dyestuffs that his labor costs running over a period of time in the manufacture of coal-tar dyestuffs do not exceed per cent of the total cost. It is an injustice to other industries, such as leather, iron and steel, lumber, machinery, the stone, clay, and glass industry, whose labor costs are two or three times the labor costs in the coal-tar industry, for the coal-tar industry to have an embargo, American valuation protection."

while these other industries are protected under foreign valuation basis."

Senator La Follette also charged that the producers of some chemicals are "engaged in price-fixing in violation of the anti-trust laws." He cited arsenic as one of the products on which the manufacturers fix prices, according to his evidence.

DAIRY PRODUCTS PRICES ARE LOWER

10 Points Under Figure for January, 1929, Government Reports

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—The farm price of dairy products was 5 points lower on Jan. 15 than on Dec. 15, and 10 points lower than on Jan. 15, 1929. The general level of farm products declined only one point between December and January.

On the dairy situation as of Jan. 15, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, says:

"The farm price of butterfat declined approximately 13 1/2 per cent from Dec. 15 to Jan. 15, due to the general falling off in demand for dairy products, as compared to an average seasonal decline of about 5 per cent during the last five years. Butterfat prices were at the lowest level for that month since 1920. The January 15 farm price of butter was also at the lowest level for this month since 1917."

In marked contrast to the usual seasonal advance in the farm price of milk cows at this period of the year, a 4 per cent decline is shown from Dec. 15 to Jan. 15. The United States average farm price of milk cows and calves, 2 years old and over, rose a 1/2 per cent increase in numbers over a year ago. A slight increase in the production of dairy products during January as compared to last year, very large relative supplies, and indications of a renewed demand for dairy products have also favored the trend toward lower farm prices for milk cows."

The farm price of corn showed a decline of approximately one per cent from Dec. 15 to Jan. 15, largely because of a rather limited feeding demand, whereas the production of dairy products has favored a reduction in the amount of grain fed to milk cows."

IS IT WORTH IT?
SAN BERNARDINO, CAL.—It's hard to say whether $1000 is worth it—and harder still to say whether or not Jean Murray, 17, will add to her grandfather's will. He provided that she should never bob her hair, use cosmetics, wear jewelry or short clothes. In return for this, he willed her $1000.

MILIUKOV PROPHECIES COLLAPSE OF SOVIETS

Paris—(AP)—The Russian Soviet government is becoming more and more entangled in its economic difficulties and is losing faith in itself, said Paul Milukov, a member of the first Kerensky government in a lecture to Russian exiles.

Milukov alleged that the allies he thought, Soviet theory and practice is becoming so vast that even the first few years of the revolution will be able to close their eyes and the overcast that the world will be

Chapter 30

A CLOUD LIFTS

THE fall form of the sheriff was standing on the veranda when Peggy answered the knock.

"Hellow. Come in and sit down."

"How come you are alone?"

Beach asked. "It's getting kind of late, most six. Aren't you uneasy, staying by yourself?"

"Julia went for the mail," Peggy paused and looked around: where was Julia? She should have returned at least a half hour before.

"It is not so lonesome as you think," she added. "Mr. Evans comes over often, and Jim," her pause was intentional—"his son."

Beach looked puzzled for an instant.

"His son," he repeated; "then, with dawning intelligence "Oh, you mean Obadiah's stepson, Jim Sinclair."

Peggy sat very still. Her heart was pounding against her ribs and she felt half suffocated. So that was it!

So Jim was, in reality, the man she had come to regard with such bitterness. She was fair enough to admit that perhaps it was a case of self-deception; she had accepted Jim as Obadiah's son and no one had corrected that impression. But was it honorable not to have told her? Perhaps Jim kept quiet to save her embarrassment.

"Mrs. Sinclair was from around these parts," went on Sheriff Beach, reminiscently. "And when she was left a widow with two small children, she came back to the old farm."

By and by she married Obadiah, but only lived about five years. Obadiah wanted to adopt both children, but the New York cousins took the little girl."

Beach wagged his head reflectively.

"Obadiah gave Jim a wonderful schooling; he sacrificed 'most everything for that boy."

As he rambled on, Peggy struggled to readjust her viewpoint.

Jim was Jim to her, his parentage of no moment. If the wealth which she had hoped to share with him was to have been his by the provision in her uncle's will in case she did not fulfill the stipulations therein, why was she the more deeply glad. Generous to a fault, Peggy's heart rejoiced—

"About that gun."

Beach spoke more briskly as he reached the object of his call.

"Here," he removed the cartridges for safe handling," and handed an automatic pistol to Peggy.

It was identically like her uncle's, but the wording on it read, Model 1911—U. S. navy."

She caught her breath. Then, smiling, of course, it would have "U. S. navy" stamped upon it—he did not belong to Jim and he was in no way to be mistaken for him.

She must tell the sheriff the comedy of errors and give him the weapon with which she shot Edgar Stanton.

"This is a .35 caliber pistol," she said, nothing the further wording on the automatic, and she put out her hand to open the leather holster where she had put her uncle's pistol "white."

"Sure," broke in Sheriff Beach, mistaking the cause of her hesitancy. "And the bullet found in Stanton's heart was of .35 caliber."

"You are a darn good shot, Miss Prescott."

Her extended hand dropped to her side. Twice she strove to speak before she found her voice.

"You say the bullet that killed Edgar Stanton was of .35 caliber?" she faltered, through lips grown ghastly white.

"I was present when the bullet was extracted by the surgeon performing the autopsy, and it fits that pistol."

"Was—was there no other bullet in Lieutenant Stanton's body?"

"None; and no other wound," crisply.

"Well, I must be going," with a scrutinizing glance at her. "Your signed confession is on file in the court house"—still she made no reply and the sheriff, considerably puzzled, walked over to the front door.

"I'll call again, Miss Prescott."

Peggy's outstretched hand again sought the drawer where lay her uncle's .45 caliber automatic pistol which she had shot at Stanton—a .45 caliber pistol—but he had been killed with a .35 caliber bullet.

Then she hadn't killed Edgar Stanton! She wasn't a murderer.

But her joy was of short duration. The bullet fitted Jim's pistol. A word from her and he would be implicated!

Driving away from the lodge, Sheriff Beach stopped his car at Echo Farm and from the seat of his car parked in Mohawk Lane, called to Obadiah Evans.

"Can't come in," he bellowed, in answer to the farmer's cordial invitation, megaphoned through his cupped hands as he stood on the front porch of his house; then, as Obadiah came closer, "I declare to gracious, I forgot to ask Miss Prescott if Sundown's been there lately."

Obadiah rested one foot on the running board and his elbow on the door of the touring car.

"Did you take her the gun?" he asked, and as the sheriff nodded, "Got it with you, or did you leave it at Yew Lodge?"

Beach regarded him indignantly.

"Do you think I'm such a fat head?" he demanded with some degree of heat. "No, I didn't leave such evidence with Miss Prescott; it's here in my pocket."

"Let's see the pistol?"

"What for?" beligerently.

"I thought maybe I'd like to know why Miss Prescott asked to see it."

"Here, this," he said gruffly, and Beach unfolded the cloth about the pistol, keeping the weapon, however, on the sash in his hand.

"Another side's the same."

"Maybe 'tis and maybe 'tisn't," he stated calmly. "Turn her over, Sheriff."

Considerably mystified, Beach did so, and he and Obadiah gazed down at the inscription on the metal: "Model 1911—U. S. navy."

The sheriff raised up the pistol and thrust it back in his pocket.

"Never expected to see you hypnotized by a gun, Obadiah," he remarked, turning on his ignition switch as a hint that the interview was over. "I'll see Sundown tomorrow; so long."

The car was moving slightly before Obadiah removed his foot from the running board. He turned back to his house and came face to face with Julia, hurrying down the path.

"Miss Prescott said she'd give me some doughnuts," she was trying to take back to Miss Peggy; so I waited," she explained.

Obadiah's objective was the coat closet in the hall. He felt about until he had located the leather holster brought to him by Aquila Chase. Carrying it to the front door Obadiah studied the initials of its dead owner. "E. S.," he muttered. "2 for evil—3 for Satan."

His powerful fingers closed around the leather with a grip of iron.

"Stanton, you dog!"

(Copyright, D. Appleton &amp; Co.)

Unknown to others Obadiah begins to see and understand the tangle. Continue the story Monday.

Financial And Market News

IRREGULARITY IS KEYNOTE OF MART AS TRADE SHIFTS

Market Opens Higher; Then Sells Off; and Turns Upward Again

BY STANLEY W. FRENCH
Associated Press Financial Editor
New York—(AP)—Frequent shifting of speculative sentiment imparted considerable irregularity to today's stock market. Prices opened higher, then reacted sharply before noon when selling pressure was renewed against some of the high priced industrial specialties. Heavy buying of Fox Film and a selected group of utilities turned the vanguard of prices upward again in the early afternoon. Trading failed to maintain the brisk pace set in the first 4,000,000 share session of the year yesterday.

Call money renewed at 4 1/2 per cent but again dropped to 4 when the official opening rate was shaded in the outside market. Time money and commercial paper were unchanged. Wall Street was divided in opinion as to whether the New York Federal reserve bank would follow the action of the Bank of England in curtailing the rediscount rate this morning. In so far as acting as a stimulant on business, it was agreed in many quarters that a lowering of the rate might be more effective a few weeks later, but some bankers felt that an immediate reduction was likely to prevent the export of gold from London to New York.

There was little in the day's business news to influence the price movement. Several excellent 1929 earnings reports made their appearance. Crucible Steel and McKeesport Tin Plate being among the main issues to make favorable comparisons with 1928. Steel production is reported to be slowly expanding, although the bullish effect of the increase has been offset to some extent by the lower prices.

In the early outbreak of selling, J. I. Case dropped six points, and Johns Manville fell five. Elevator stocks, a renewal of selling pressure against Simmons carried that issue down nearly four points to a new low for the year at 75 1/4. Auburn Auto dropped 3 1/2 and Columbia Gas 2.

The brisk bidding for Fox Film apparently was predicated on the theory that a successful reorganization would be brought forward to avert the ownership of the studio by creditors and minority stockholders. The stock was marked up more than four points to a new high for the year at 29 1/2, which contrasts with a low of 15 1/8 when the receivership talk was at its height.

Detroit Edison, Stone and Webster and Peoples Gas were marked up 1 1/2 points in the early afternoon rally.

Good weather in the east stimulated the demand for the shares of anthracite carrying railroads. Reading moved up nearly four points and Lackawanna 2 1/2.

Western Union converted an early loss of two points into a gain of two points and American Woolen Common and Preferred, Canadian Pacific, Columbia Carbon, Calumet and Arizona, General Asphalt, General American Tank Car and National Lead sold to 6 points higher.

Selling orders predominated in the final hour when the tonic effect of the advance in some of the utilities, Fox Film and other stocks had worn off. Gillette Safety Razor was hammered energetically by the bear faction and dropped below 94 to a new low for the year. Allegheny Corp., Radio Corp. and Radio Keith were among issues to turn heavy.

Liberty and Victory bonds, retail sales approximated 3,500,000 shares.

MART STRENGTHENS WITH EASY MONEY PROSPECT

New York—(AP)—Prospects of easier money, based on predictions that the New York Federal reserve bank would soon reduce its rediscount rate following the cut by the Bank of England, led to marked improvement in bond trading today. United States government securities, prominent foreign bonds and high grade domestic listings, especially the rails, met the best demand in some time and made small advances. Liberty and Victory bonds, retail sales approximated 3,500,000 shares.

SMALL RUN GIVES MART BETTER TONE

Bulk of Offerings Are Again Short Feds and Medium Qualities

Chicago—(AP)—Better tone prevailed in the fast street market this morning on the strength of a small run at Chicago and the increased interest of shippers in the planer kinds yesterday. Of course the bulk of the offerings was again of the short-term and medium-quality variety, but even the supply of these was so small that there was almost certain to be some activity. Early sales were steady within the range of $13.00 down to $11.00. Any choice slaughter steers on hand were certain to go at stronger prices. Bulls have not recovered from their late weakness and sold steady with the decline of yesterday at the start, with sausage kinds at $8.00 to $8.75 and beef bulls ranging from $7.75 to $10.25.

Local packers took a quarter of the hog run of 40,000 directly, but shipping and small packing demand was sufficiently strong not only to prevent a break but actually to boost prices 10c in some cases. Small supplies at the 11 markets also accounted for some of the rush of the outside buyers, as there were only 103,000 today at all the centers, as compared to 137,000 last Thursday. Chicago's receipts for this week are 1,000 behind last week's total for the first four days. All these factors prevented the break, which started yesterday, from continuing, and put hogs back again on their abnormally high plane. Weights from 180 to 260 lb sold early at the same top as the day before $10.60, while heavy kinds made $10.20 in the early trade.

Sheep trading opened slowly, with bids ranging lower, and very little inquiry. Sellers insisted upon prices at least steady with yesterday, although there was little hope that the top of $12.50 would be made. The supply was ample for all requirements of the trade, at 14,000. About 1,000 of these were sent to the packers directly.

WHEAT MAKES GOOD GAINS IN RAPIDLY FLUCTUATING MART

Report That Russia Is Selling Grain to Get Machinery Causes Strength

BY JOHN P. DOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor
Chicago—(AP)—The rapidly fluctuating market wheat values here scored sharp upturns during the late dealings today. Commission houses because active buyers after an early rush of selling that forced prices down to new low records for the season. Russia was reported to be trying to arrange foreign bank credits on offers of 250,000 tons of export wheat, but it was asserted in usually well-informed quarters that Russia has in reality no grain of consequence to spare and that her need is cash with which to purchase machinery.

On price setbacks witnessed today in the wheat market here, aggressive buying developed at times and there was impressive evidence of latent rallying power. Houses with eastern connections were prominent in the buying, and much stress was laid on advices current that Russia has no surplus wheat, her sales being merely of surplus amounts to obtain funds for purchase of agricultural machinery. On the other hand, Liverpool dispatches received here today said Russian wheat offerings were increasing.

Exports of wheat from Russia so far this season were figured today as totaling 92,000 bu. including 69,000 bu. this week. Meanwhile, export business overnight from North America continued to lack volume. Estimated world import requirements for the ensuing six months were authoritatively announced as 14,000,000 bu. a week. In the corn market short covering and buying against bids caused a rally from inside figures. Peoria messages indicated that movement of corn would probably prove disappointing, and added that country roads are breaking up fast. Oats followed other grain.

GRACE CRASHES AIRPLANES FOR AN OCCUPATION

Stunt Movie Pilot Has Just Brought 34th Cloud Bus Down

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
Hollywood, Calif.—(CFA)—Dick
Grace, whose engagement to Miss Christine Francis of Tacoma, Wash., has just been announced, crashes airplanes for a living. Just before the announcement he brought down his 34th cloud bus with himself inside.

Grace wouldn't jump off Brooklyn bridge or walk across Niagara on a right rope for any money, but as for going up 1,500 feet and nose-diving to the earth for a splintering smash-up—pouf! That's easy—when you know how.

Not that he can explain how he knows how. Not, perhaps, that he would explain if he could, for Dick Grace, the "broken-neck aviator," stands forth as one of the few performers in Hollywood who draw large salaries neither because of a perfect profile nor because of a penchant for the dramatic, but because of an ability to do something which few others care to try.

By the same token he stands forth as one person in this town whose glory no crowd of rivals is trying to steal.

Crashing airplanes on purpose may not be exactly a soft job, but it is safe in that competition is negligible.

FEW CLOSE-UPS
You don't usually catch more than a glimpse of Dick Grace in any picture. Though a personable chap, it isn't he who, entangled in moonlight and melting moments, causes your heart to throb. The glimpse you get of him makes your heart stand still.
He's the spectacular "bit" in thundering air battles whose plane, bullet-riddled, drops like a plummet or a floating leaf—he can do it whichever way the director likes—from an altitude so dizzy that skeptics Charge up the crash to mechanical effect.

"A knack," he said, stepping from the wreckage of his 34th smash-up.
The knack consists in wrecking the plane without wrecking D. Grace.
"It's a matter of calculation. Figure your speed and distance right and everything's O. K. You need a good eye and a pilot's license."

Psychologists and medical men say Grace possesses a rare gift. In addition to being a skilled aviator, he has an extraordinarily keen sense of depth, possession of which enables one to judge whether his machine is hovering within, say, a thousand or a hundred feet of the ground. Grace seems able to judge within inches.

To him a crash is all in the day's work. Indeed, it is the day's work—light employment in the open air, short hours, good pay. Try it some time.

time a month ago.

Rural Teacher Commended For Manual Training Work

Arnold Krueger, teacher of the Badger rural school, town of Grand Chute, was commended this week by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, for instituting a manual training project in his school which is proving of invaluable aid to the students.

The class was started by Mr.
Krueger when he organized a Hammer and Nail club among the students. Officers of the club are Dorothy Rogers, president; John Frende, vice president; and Lawrence Uts-chig, secretary and treasurer.

The group is permitted a certain amount of time each week when it gathers in the basement of the

MARRIAGE LICENSE

BUSINESS FALLS OFF

Only 11 marriage licenses were issued in January, by John E.
Hantschel, county clerk. This second smallest number issued in that month in the last five years. In January, 1927, there were only nine licenses issued, the only month in the last five years when they were fewer licenses. In January, 1929, there were 17 licenses issued. In January, 1928, 20 licenses were issued; January, 1926, 24 licenses;
January, 1925, 16 licenses.

school, which has been outfitted as a manual training shop. During this period Mr. Krueger acts as instructor. During the rest of the week, if students have completed all their regular class work and have fulfilled other class room requirements, they are permitted to go to the manual training shop to work on projects.

The group has made benches, magazine racks, smoking stands and many other small pieces of furniture.
The students also have repaired many pieces of broken furniture which they brought to school from their homes.

"This project is worthy of commendation because it is a worthwhile piece of work which had been done without any special incentive and we are glad to praise our teachers when they accomplish these things," Mr. Meating said.

DAIRY LAWS HELP QUALITY IN STATE

Wisconsin Should Be Proud of Reputation, C. L. Hill Declares

Madison—(P)—The trend of Wisconsin's dairy laws has been toward discouragement of any product except one of highest quality, Charles L. Hill, chairman of the state department of agriculture and markets, told persons at Farm Folks'
Week here yesterday in an address.

"Wisconsin is and should be proud of its reputation as a dairy state and we should be equally anxious to do everything within our power to maintain and advance this reputation," he said.

Mr. Hill traced the important dairy and food laws, enacted by the last legislature, all the time explaining that their object was toward production of the best of products.

He dwelt at length on fat contents of cheese, concluding, "The more I study the matter, the more firmly am I convinced that the maintaining of the fat content of normal milk, just so soon will we begin to lessen the quality of our Wisconsin cheese."

He said the department is not ready to announce a policy for grading cheese. Mr. Hill explained that the present method of a factory persons grading the product under the supervision of a state department man has not worked out satisfactorily.

The object of grading, according to Mr. Hill, are the maintenance of quality, and the incentive of an extra price for better milk for better cheese.

The speaker commented on milk supplies to cities. While generally of a high order, he said there are some Wisconsin cities that fall below standard. The department, its chairman said, feels an improvement should be made, and plans are being furthered for a bacteriologist to work with inspectors for better milk supplies.

Mr. Hill paid high tribute to the late Gov. William D. Hoard, whose legislative session in 1889, brought the dairy and food commissioner.
